A New Business Problem.
Our Turn to Dump Wheat.
Better Than Flying.
Money Very Cheap.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

BUSINESSMEN have a new problem, although 90 per cent of them don't yet know it.

In 1929, their problem was "How can we produce all that we can sell?" Their problem now is "How can we sell all that we produce, or even half of it?"

The 1929 problem was one of manufacturing. The problem now is one of ADVERTISING and distribution. A 90 per cent manufacturing proposition has suddenly changed to a 90 per cent advertising proposition.

OUR FARM Board, tired of buying wheat above the market price, will sell in Europe the huge surplus acquired while it was "running a wheat corner." The Farm Board paid as much as 92 cents a bushel, and will probably get about half that, as it gradually "dumps" its wheat on Europe's markets.

By the way, it was "red, roaring Bolshevism" when the Russians dumped a little wheat over here. It will be respectable finance when we dump one or two hundred million bushels in Europe.

"Orthodoxy is my doxy. Heterodoxy is your doxy."

RUTH NICHOLS, young American flier, who holds the two-way transcontinental air speed record for women, will fly from New York to Paris, via the Lindbergh route, all alone. There should be some way of admiring and rewarding young women of this kind as thoroughly as they deserve, and at the same time a way to prevent their running such risks.

Such a girl, in the future, might be the mother of a son worth more than a million solo flights across the Atlantic, or the Pacific, or from here to Mars.

W. H. WOODIN, big business man and wise, says "better times in the fall" are bound to come, and his biggest interest, the American Locomotive Company, has not cut wages, although operations are curtailed. He says the country is "at the bottom of the business depression" and he is a good judge of business conditions.

GEN. ATTERBURY, Pennsylvania Railroad president, thinks "plain living and high thinking" would help for a while, although he sees and approves "an upward trend in living conditions."

Gen. Atterbury, asking no special sympathy for railroads, says they are doing about as well as other businesses.

FRANCE HAS begun sending gold to the United States, and our biggest supply on earth will become even bigger. All that we need now is someone to tell us how to use all the gold, money, coal, oil, wheat, cotto and other things we have in excess.

We have everything and don't know how to distribute it.

MONEY IS cheap, like other things. Uncle Sam needs $60,000,000 more for May refunding and can borrow below 1½ per cent. Those who do not understand finance wonder why Uncle Sam must borrow from banks, when he himself prints the money they lend him.

PROF. W. Z. RIPLEY, of Harvard, authority on transportation, says we need a new cabinet position, with a title like "secretary of transportation," to manage railroads. He advocates railroad mergers that will reduce 30 big systems to four, to meet competition of trucks and buses.

The nation should discard or revamp the archaic Sherman act, nearly 50 years old, as much out of date as the hansom cabs, that carried its authors.

That act actually would put in jail manufacturers, oil producers, coal men or railroad men, if they evolved and applied a plan to fight depression with common-sense regulation of production.

IN ONE of the Central American countries, barbers, to restore prosperity and kill competition, plead with the government to forbid importation of safety razors. They say:

"It is unjust to us to let people learn how to shave themselves. Please don't let them."

That sounds like the modern protest against improved machinery, and the protest of some railroad men against canals and automobiles. The way to conquer competition is to beat it. Tears will not suffice.

KANSAS THINKS it needs Vice President Curtis to run for the Senate again to beat Senator George McGill, Democrat, and Republicans want Dwight W. Morrow to run for vice president with Mr. Hoover in 1932.

It is not the vice presidency, probably, that Mr. Morrow has in mind. But Republicans think he might be persuaded to start low and finish high, by promising him the presidential nomination for 1936.

Mr. Morrow's acceptance or refusal might reveal his opinion as to how long this depression will last. Being vice president in a long depression is no job to envy.

DOCTOR HELD ON DOPE CHARGE

GOVERNOR'S POLICE BILL RE-DRAWN

Executive Admits Mistakes In First Measure; New Blue Law Modifier Pushed

Coal Police and Sunday Blue Law issues usurped the center of the legislative stage in Harrisburg today with these developments:

1—Gov. Pinchot admitted "mistakes" had been made in the provisions of his original police bill and had it reported for passage in the House with drastic changes which made it practically a new measure.

2—Representative Musmanno denounced the amended Pinchot bill as being "equally as bad as the first," and A. F. L. delegates demanded action on Musmanno's rival measure.

3—The Denning bill for county local option on Sunday baseball was forced out of committee and on the House calendar by allied Pittsburgh and Philadelphia Blue Law foes.

4—The Coyne bill for a constitutional amendment making Allegheny County "the city of Pittsburgh," under a metropolitan charter plan, reached the Senate floor.

HARRISBURG, April 22.—Developments came fast today in the rival camps of Gov. Gifford Pinchot and Representative M. A. Musmanno, over the coal and iron police issue.

Shortly after the Governor had issued a statement admitting "mistakes" had been made in his original industrial police measure, known as the Wilson bill, it was reported out for passage by the House Law and Order Committee with drastic changes which Representative Wilson, its sponsor, said made it practically a new measure.

MUSMANNO RAPS BILL

Musmanno was quick to act and issued a statement in which he denounced the new Wilson bill as

BLEDSOE HELD IN DEATH PLOT

UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 22.—(INS.)—Convinced they had uncovered an insurance murder plot dating back almost two years, police today arrested R. C. Bledsoe, former Fayette County detective and for many years head of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad detective staff here, and charged him with the murder of Elmer Younkin, 36, of Markleton.

Younkin's body was found November 21, 1928, in the wreckage of an automobile which was struck by a train near Connellsville. It was at first believed he had been killed accidentally.

Bledsoe declared he had left Younkin in the automobile shortly before the crash.

Detectives intimated today they had obtained information that Bledsoe had had Younkin's life insured for $5,000, with Bledsoe and a brother of Younkin named as beneficiaries.

When arrested, Bledsoe was in the workhouse serving a three-year term for participation in the "slaughter house" still operations.

PARKE FIRM BALKS AUDIT BY CITIZENS

Will Open Books Only to Kerr's Inquiry; Colvin to Confer With Contractors

BULLETIN.

C. W. Wolf, secretary of the M. O'Herron Company, advised Assistant District Attorney William H. Colvin late today that his company has no objections to submitting the O'Herron company books to Price, Waterhouse & Co. for investigation in connection with disclosures made in the public works quiz.

Wolf asked for time, however, to consult the O'Herron company's attorneys before bringing the books in.

The L. H. Parke Company today refused to permit Main & Co., Citizens' Committee auditors in the dual audit of the records of the Department of Supplies, to inspect their books.

It was learned that the Parke Company, from whom the city has purchased thousands of dollars worth of food supplies, has made no effort to prevent Price, Waterhouse & Company, conducting the audit for City Controller James P. Kerr, from making an examination.

This was revealed as Assistant District Attorney William H. Colvin awaited a conference with officers of the M. O'Herron Company, city contractors, regarding an inspection of their books, following disclosures in the public investigation of the Department of Public Works.

INSISTS ON RECORDS

Colvin said that he is anxious to obtain the O'Herron Company records for 1930 and has indicated that if the company refuses to grant the inspection, will ask City

MAGISTRATE ROTHENBERG DR. ISAAC S. DILLER, 40 MIKE GANNOS, 28 MRS. BETTY GANNOS, 27

The magistrate's hearing today in Morals Court for Dr. Diller, Squirrel Hill physician, under arrest and held for investigation, and the North Side couple also held after Mrs. Gannos was caught presenting a narcotic prescription that was a forgery. Detective Kaiser is showing some of 65 drug boxes found in the Gannos' home, all bearing Dr. Diller's name as physician.

DRUGS GIVEN AS CURE, HE DECLARES

Dr. Isaac S. Diller, 40, prominent Squirrel Hill physician, was held for investigation in Central Police Court today after Mike Gonnas, 28, and his wife, Betty Gonnas, 27, had testified that Dr. Diller had supplied them narcotics.

Dr. Diller did not deny having supplied the drug but explained that it was part of the cure for the man and wife. He said:

"Mrs. Gonnas came to me as a patient and I learned she was a drug addict. I gave her a drug until I cured her of the habit. I sent her to the Columbia Hospital, where she remained three or four weeks, until she was cured. After she was discharged her husband came to me, also as a patient, suffering from the use of drugs. I cured him by giving him a drug until the habit was broken."

DRUG BOXES SHOWN

City detectives produced as evidence 30 of the 65 prescription boxes for narcotics, which they reported finding in the Gonnas home in East South Diamond street, North Side.

The name on each prescription was different.

Dr. Diller said that each name represented a patient of his.

Government narcotic men, notified by the detectives, were reported investigating to determine who had had these prescriptions filled.

Dr. Diller was arrested in his home in Castleman street last night after the couple had been taken.

Mrs. Gonnas was arrested in a North Side drug store when she presented a prescription signed with Dr. Diller's name. The clerk called the physician and was told the prescription was a forgery.

Arrested, Mrs. Gonnas admitted the prescription was a forgery and added that her husband also was an addict, the detectives said.

HARMONY LINE END FORECAST

Inroads by auto bus lines and the ravages of time brought four important developments to the Pittsburgh district's transportation systems today. They were:

1—A statement from David I. McCahill, president of the Harmony trolley line, between Pittsburgh and Butler, predicting that the route would soon be discontinued and replaced by bus service. At the same time, Maurice R. Scharff, under whose receivership the company is operating, said he had made no plans for any changes or discontinuation of service.

2—An announcement that Hiram D. Hirsh, Pittsburgh representative of the Public Service Commission here, would ask an immediate survey of the Harmony line by commission engineers to determine if it is safe for traffic.

3—Discontinuance, at 11:50 p. m., of the Butler Short Line, operated by the Harmony owners, and its replacement, to some extent, by bus service.

Billie Burke Loses Purse, Cash on Train

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 22.—(AP.)—Mrs. Florenz Ziegfeld, known to the stage as Billie Burke, lost a bag containing between $3,000 and $4,000 in checks and a large sum of cash when she left a Boston-New York train for a few minutes here yesterday. Providence police, to whom the loss was reported, were unable to discover any trace of the bag.

Lady Heath Sleeps in Jail On 'Hard, Nasty Bench,' Denies She Was Drunk

WINDSOR, Ontario, April 22.—(INS.)—Lady Mary Heath, internationally known aviatrix, today discussed the occurrence which led to her incarceration in a Windsor police station for five hours on a charge of intoxication. She said her predicament was due to the rain, causing a traffic tieup, and added:

"This was a new experience for me. I'm 33 years old and I'd never been in jail before."

Released under $16.50 bond, the flier intimated that she would not appear for her hearing, but would forfeit the bond.

RETURNING FROM PARTY

Lady Heath, divorced wife of Sir James Heath, wealthy London, England, iron master, declared that she was returning from a party when her tiff with the law occurred. She said:

"I went to a private house party after speaking at the Professional Women's Club. I had two beers and a small whisky and everyone knows that one can't become intoxicated on that."

"About 12:30 a. m., my secretary, Mr. Williams, and I were returning to the hotel. Mr. Williams was driving.

"You may recall that it was raining last night. I reached

Loses O'Neill Suit, Must Pay Big Costs

NEW YORK, April 22.—(INS.)—Georges Lewys, author, today lost her suit for plagiarism against Eugene O'Neill, dramatist, and was assessed $17,500 costs by Federal Judge Woolsey. Of this amount $7,500 goes to O'Neill for costs of the suit.

The court held there was "no possible ground" for Miss Lewys' contention that O'Neill's play, "Strange Interlude," was plagiarized from Miss Lewys' novel, "The Temple of Pallas Athenae."

Whiteman Denies Film Star Marriage

CHICAGO, April 22.—(INS.)—Paul Whiteman, king of jazz, today said he had not married "anybody" when informed of reports that he had wed Margaret Livingston, motion picture actress. Reports of a romance between Miss Livingstone and Whiteman have been circulated in some quarters following the divorce granted Vanda Hoff, classical dancer, who was his third wife, from the orchestra leader several weeks ago.

King's Aged Aunt Refuses to Be Lost in Rush

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

But sbe has one ancient Spanish custom that wasn't going to be deserted in her hour of needles.

She asked a traffic gendarme which way they went, and scampered after them in her own private cloud of dust.

Al and his auntie were united in Paris again with great rejoicing on auntie's part.

Now Alfonso has skipped to London. If he overlooked Isabella again that won't worry her. She doesn't mind being left in Paris.

Alfonso apologized profusely to Isabella. You know how it is in the excitement. But Isabella reminded him that in excitement or anything else she was still his Auntie Isabella.

As a matter of fact, in those quick moonlight elopements you are always liable to forget a toothbrush, the canary or your aunt.

The King says he is going back when somebody calls him. But the way the situation shapes up, Al had better make sure of that call by studying ventriloquism.

WEATHER STOPS PIRATE OPENER

Snow and the opening day of the baseball season arrived simultaneously in Pittsburgh today—with the result that there was no game. Last year the Pirates braved the elements on opening day and had to call a halt after several innings of play due to a driving snowstorm.

Today they postponed the opener with the Cubs shortly before noon, when it was raining and cold. A few hours later, the rain turned to snow.

The temperature dropped 18 degrees in an hour this morning, from 66 degrees at 9 o'clock to 48 at 10. Continued rain and snow is forecast for this afternoon and tonight, with fair and cold predicted for tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to usher in the season at Forbes Field.

Grenfell Asks Medal For Hero of Viking

BOSTON, April 22.—(INS.—Sir Wilfred Grenfell, Labrador medical missionary, today revealed that he planned to recommend Henry Jackson Sargent, of Boston, sole American survivor of the sealing steamer Viking disaster, which took a toll of 24 lives when it blew up off Horse Island last March, for a Carnegie hero medal.

Grenfell described the rescue by Sargent, of Clayton King, the wireless operator, and William Kennedy, navigation officer, who were badly injured.

Girl Fliers in Sea Race, World Test for Men

NEW YORK, April 22.—(AP.)—A race between two women fliers, each determined to be the first of her sex to make a solo hop across the Atlantic, was in prospect today.

One of them is an American, Miss Ruth Nichols, of Rye, N. Y., who has flown a plane slightly more than 210 miles an hour, the highest speed ever attained by a woman. The second is a Canadian, Miss Edith Elizabeth McColl, a blonde stenographer, of Galt, Ontario, whose plans became known yesterday after it was learned definitely that Miss Nichols is intent on making the flight.

LOS ANG[illegible], April 22.—(AP.)—A race around the world between two ambitious fliers in identical monoplanes became a possibility here today with preparations by John Henry Mears, of New York, and Wiley Post, Oklahoma City speed flier, entering the final stages.

Post took his fleet craft to a Burbank factory yesterday for overhaul and installation of larger gasoline tanks. He said he would start his attempt to encircle the earth in 10 days with Harold Gatty, Los Angeles navigator, who accompanied Harold Bromley, of Tacoma, Wash., on an unsuccessful attempt to span the Pacific from Japan.

Carol's Policies Dictated By Titian-Haired Magda

LONDON, April 22.—(INS.)—The startling disclosure that Mme. Magda Lupescu, auburn-haired Rumanian divorcee, for whom King Carol II, of Rumania, once gave up his rights to the throne, is playing the part of a twentieth century "Madame Pompadour" and dictating her sovereign's policies was made by the London Daily Telegraph today.

In a lengthy dispatch from its correspondent at Bucharest, the newspaper declares that Mme. Lupescu has returned from her "exile" and is constantly at the royal palace, aiding Carol in arranging political matters in such a way as to permit her formal reinstatement as the King's companion.

With the valuable aid of Mme. Lupescu, the telegraph declared, Carol is setting the stage for a military dictatorship with himself in the role of autocratic dictator.

As soon as possible, it was declared, the King intends to proceed with his long-delayed formal coronation. His divorced wife, Princess Helen, will not be included in the ceremony, and it was stated that she probably will have deferred to the wishes of the sovereign and left the country by that time.

Princess Helen has remained in the capital solely for the sake of her son, 9-year-old Crown Prince Michael, steadfast in her refusal to consider a reconciliation with the King.

Soon after Carol's dramatic coup d'etat last year, it was reported on good authority that the King had threatened to install Mme. Lupescu in the royal palace if Princess Helen persisted in refusing a reconciliation.

DISBARMENT OF 2 OHIO JUDGES ASKED IN UTILITIES QUIZ

STEEL SUIT JURIST NAMED

Jenkins Accepted Money, Prosecutor Charges; Says Other Dodged Light Bill

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 22.—(AP.)—Prosecutor Ray L. Thomas has struck back at Mahoning County Common Pleas Court judges who have demanded that he withdraw from an investigation of public utility deals here.

Thomas, in petitions filed late yesterday, asked disbarment of Judges David G. Jenkins and J. H. C. Lyon and with them named three other judges in affidavits of prejudice.

Judge Jenkins became nationally known as the jurist whose decision recently enjoined the proposed billion dollar merger of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation and the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company.

OUSTED COMMISSIONER

The utilities investigation was started last March when Harry Engle was ousted as traction commissioner. The five Mahoning Common Pleas judges have charged that Thomas himself is involved in utility deals and have asked that he be removed from the investigation.

Thomas also demanded the disbarment of Attorney Andrew M. Henderson, one of the three legal advisors to the judges in their investigation.

CHARGES AGAINST JUDGES

Jenkins was charged with receiving funds for a vacation trip and medical expenses from utilities, Lyon with using his office as an excuse to avoid payment of a $500 light bill, and Henderson with assuming financial obligations of Lyon's after being appointed as attorney for a receiver.

As soon as the judges learned of Thomas action, they filed a supplemental journal charging an unnamed attorney for the prosecutor with threatening action unless a compromise was reached on the utilities probe. They also asserted that the hearing on their demands that Thomas withdraw would be held as planned April 29 before two outside judges.

DEMPSEY SEEKS SECLUSION

RENO, Nev., April 22.—(INS.)—Harried by crowds that dog his footsteps, Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, today was contemplating building a lodge in the high Sierras near the California line so that he might secure rest and seclusion.

Because of the attention he attracts here, Dempsey has been slipping out of Reno whenever possible to take advantage of the more secluded Cal-Neva resort on the California-Nevada line.

Dempsey is in Nevada for the announced intention of suing his actress-wife, Estelle Taylor, for a divorce. He will not be able to file his complaint until he has resided here for six weeks. Meanwhile Miss Taylor has declared that she will bring a divorce action against Dempsey at Los Angeles.

John D. Arrives At New Jersey Home

LAKEWOOD, N. J., April 22.—(AP.)—Bundled up in a heavy overcoat despite balmy weather, John D. Rockefeller, Sr., arrived at his home yesterday from Florida. He was accompanied by his secretaries and their families and proceeded directly to the house without stopping to greet friends.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 22.—(AP.)—A Superior Court jury here yesterday ruled a bad dream was worth $350. It awarded that amount in damages to Mrs. Jean Sheehy and her daughter, Miss Helen Sheehy, who said they suffered nightmares since a street car collision in Twin Peaks Tunnel November 12, 1930.

PHYSICIAN HELD IN DOPE CASE

Gonnas was then arrested and their 5-year-old daughter, Betty, who was with her mother in the store, also was taken to police headquarters.

Detective Walter Kaiser reported that Gonnas had admitted being an addict for six months his wife for a year.

The couple paid Dr. Diller more than $2,000 for narcotics in the last six months, Kaiser quoted the husband, who said he had lost his job as a waiter because of the dope habit.

Dr. Diller visited him at the restaurant and telephoned him, encouraging him to take prescriptions, Gonnas said, according to the detective.

At the hearing Dr. Diller said that sometimes he gave the couple prescriptions for the drug, other times he gave them the drug itself.

HOPE FOR CURE

Both husband and wife told police they were relieved that they had been discovered by police and hoped they might be cured soon. Mrs. Gannos forged the last prescription because she had been without funds, the police said.

Dr. Diller, a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh in the class of 1912, was in bed when detectives arrived to arrest him. He had been practicing here for 12 years and has an office in the Highland Building.

When Dr. Diller asked to be released on bail, Magistrate Leo Rothenberg referred him to Frank R. Boyd, captain of detectives.

Hoover Watches Autogiro Land at White House

WASHINGTON, April 22.—While government and aviation notables, headed by President Hoover and Orville Wright, looked on, an autogiro was landed today on the south lawn of the White House.

The feat was accomplished by James G. Ray as part of a ceremony in which President Hoover presented the Collier trophy to Harold Pitcairn, of Philadelphia, and associates for the outstanding development in American aviation in 1930.

The windmill airplane was the second craft ever to land on the White House grounds, harking back to the Taft administration when the pioneer Harry Atwood made a landing.

Faced with a strong southeast wind, Ray, who is chief test pilot for the Pitcairn-Cierva Autogiro Company, passed twice over the small rectangular space before he dropped from above the White House and came to a stop after a 20-foot run.

President Hoover shook hands with the pilot while Mrs. Hoover and two grandchildren, Peggy Ann and Herbert, III, looked on from the south portico of the White House.

PARKE REFUSES CITIZEN AUDIT

Confirming the fact that the Citizens' Committee auditors had been refused an inspection of the books, S. C. Irwin, a director of the Parke Company, today today:

"We have offered our books to the city for inspection, but not to the public."

Irwin was asked:

"Then you take the position that Main & Co., represents the public?"

REFERRED TO KERR

He replied:

"Isn't the City of Pittsburgh the public?"

The Parke Company director's reply was:

"You'll have to see Controller Kerr. I have nothing more to say."

Attorney Earl R. Reed, of the Citizens' Committee, and two Main & Co. auditors, M. C. Conick and Andrew Burke, visited Irwin in his offices here to arrange for the inspection of the books, but made no headway. Beyond admitting that he had been to Irwin's office, Attorney Reed had nothing to say.

O'HERRON CONTRACTS

Colvin's interest in the 1930 O'Herron records was heightened yesterday during a conference with Attorney Evans in which it was revealed that the O'Herron company had the contract for the Becks Run sewer, which Evans says was increased from $98,545 to $133,365 and a grading contract at the eastern end of the Boulevard of the Allies said to have been increased from $65,168 to $74,340.

The contract on which Evans originally called for the O'Herron company records was a section of the Boulevard of the Allies in the vicinity on Shalom street, where, city records reveal, the amount of earth excavated and removed was increased from 50 cubic yards in the original estimate to 10,079 cubic yards in the final estimate.

HONDURAS MAPS DRIVE ON REBELS

Government Mobilizes Troops For Offensive; Insurgents Leaving Railway Sector

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Government forces were preparing to start an offensive drive against the revolutionists threatening San Pedro Sula, Honduras, American Minister Louis G. Lay, at Tegucigalpa, cabled the State Department today.

San Pedro Sula is about 25 miles inland from the seaport Cortez, where the American cruiser Marblehead is moored.

The situation in Northern Honduras has changed little during the 24 hours ended when Lay filed his dispatch, he said. There had been no combats reported anywhere, and the apparently small group which had rebelled in the Castilla and Ceiba districts had scattered to the mountains in the interior, Lay said.

The largest rebel concentration, which had been stationary along the National Railway south of San Pedro Sula, was reported last night to be moving northwest to the Quimistan-San Pedro highway to effect a junction with Gen. Gregorio Ferrera, who has been persistently rumored to have aligned himself with the insurrectionists. Ferrera, Lay added, is supposed to have left San Pedro Sula, where he had been hiding out.

Lay said he had requested the American cruiser Memphis at Ceiba to visit Tela, where there was high nervous tension.

Chicago in Fear Of New Beer War

CHICAGO, April 22.—(INS.)—Renewal of a South Side beer war was feared by police today as the result of the murder yesterday of Frank McErlane's chief lieutenant, Edward Fitzgerald, by five assassins who smashed their way into a saloon. ACTRESS SUES NEGRO MATE

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—(AP.)—Helen Lee Worthing, stage and screen actress who once was described by Harrison Fisher, artist, as possessing the most beautiful profile in America, has filed suit to divorce Dr. Eugene C. Nelson, her Negro husband.

Her petition, filed yesterday, charges jealousy, cruelty and threats to have her "confined to some institution."

Dr. Nelson said he would not contest the suit nor resist "a proper monetary settlement to care for her during her illness."

They were married in June, 1928. They separated tentatively in December of the following year, and finally on April 14 of this year. Miss Worthing's most recent screen appearances have been with John Barrymore in "Don Juan" and Adolphe Menjou in "The Swan."

SPANISH CHIEF REBUKES FOES OF LAUGHLIN

New Republic's President Condemns Attacks Made On Foreign Ambassadors

By THOMAS A. LOAYZA
International News Service.

MADRID, April 22.—Vigorous condemnation of the attacks made by several Republican newspapers here against a number of foreign ambassadors and ministers appointed during the monarchical regime, including United States Ambassador Irwin B. Laughlin, of Pittsburgh, was contained in a sharply worded statement issued by Provisional President Niceto Alcala Zamora this afternoon.

In answer to demands by the newspapers that some of the envoys be recalled, the President took occasion to declare that all enjoyed the confidence and respect of Spain as well as of their own governments.

LAUGHLIN SILENT

Crisol's article on Ambassador Laughlin did not mention him by name but, after attributing the alleged remark to a certain envoy, declared:

"We advise him to return to Pittsburgh, letting a new man take the post, in which he has sufficiently demonstrated his incompetency."

REPUBLIC RECOGNIZED

WASHINGTON, April 22.—(INS.)—The United States today recognized the new Republican government set up in Spain following King Alfonso's flight from the country last week, the State Department announced.

This action followed the course taken by France, Belgium, Great Britain and Germany.

Irwin B. Laughlin, American ambassador in Madrid, was delegated to notify the officials of the new Spanish regime that the United States had accorded it recognition.

The Spanish republic's ambassador to the United States will be Salvador de Madariaga, scholar, internationalist, writer of note, former League of Nations official, and at present the Alfonso XIII professor of Spanish studies at Oxford University, England.

Severe Quake Rocks New Zealand Isle

LONDON, April 22.—(INS.)—The Hawkes Bay area of New Zealand's north island was rocked today by the sharpest earthquake since the February disaster, but resultant damage was surprisingly small, according to Exchange Telegraph dispatches from Wellington. The heavy shock cracked and tumbled a few walls at Napier, center of the February devastation, but otherwise passed off without much trace.

"Mr. Williams stopped the car. The traffic tie-up followed. I called a constable myself. Then he took me down to the police station as a drunk although I was able to walk unassisted.

"I had to sleep on a hard, nasty wooden bench. I wasn't drunk. Some of the officers at the police station know that, too!

They know I was not drunk and so do I but I would rather forfeit my bond and explain my case to the newspapers than to go to court."

Lady Heath acquired fame as an aviatrix when she piloted a plane 11,000 miles from England to South Africa. She later figured in a nearly fatal airplane crash at Cleveland, O., during the 1929 air races.

The noblewoman was married to Sir James in London October 13, 1927. She obtained a divorce at Reno, Nev., in May of last year.

Coolidge Favors Broad Theory of Education

To the Editor of The Sun-Telegraph:

It would be easier to determine who should go to college if the purpose of a college education first were decided. If it be conceded that the purpose is merely to train sufficient leaders in thought for the professions and statecraft, then the number should be limited and much emphasis put on proper selection. In that case we should be entirely right in thinking many students are not qualified for such work and so should not seek a college degree.

Mr. Coolidge

Another conception of education makes it a general preparation for life, a method by which individual existence is broadened and sweetened. This theory sees no reason for confining the colleges to the professions or to those of exceptional capacity.

Certainly the world now rewards the trades to an even higher degree than it does some professions. If we would stop thinking that a bachelor of arts must be a white collar man and let him be any kind of man he is adapted to be, the danger of spoiling a good craftsman to make a poor professional man would vanish. The world is too far committed to democracy easily to conclude that we can make an aristocracy of learning. Every life needs more light.

DEAF WOMAN THRILLS AT SOUND

Famous Blind Scholar Tells Of Sensation as Engines Roar; Meets Hoover Today

By CROSWELL BOWEN, JR.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Helen Keller, famous deaf and blind woman, heard for the first time today following her first airplane trip. She flew from Newark Airport yesterday to Washington to greet President Hoover on behalf of the World Conference for the Blind.

Miss Keller told an International News Service correspondent, who accompanied her on the trip:

"Oh! It was so wonderful. No one could realize what a great thrill it was except one who neither sees nor hears. At one point I felt I could really hear a terrific roar."

Shortly after the giant two-motored Eastern Air Transport liner had taken off the engines were opened wide and the airplane lurched forward at full speed. An expression of astonishment lighted Miss Keller's face, changing to extreme pleasure. She turned to her companion, Miss Polly Thomson and, pointing to her ears, said:

HEARS MOTORS ROAR

"I can hear. I can hear. It is ever so wonderful, Polly."

Miss Keller has never heard her own voice and, therefore, speaks in forced syllables which, though pleasing, are not easily understood. Miss Thomson generally repeats Miss Keller's words.

Asked if she really believed Miss Keller had heard for the first time in her life, Miss Thomson said:

"It is difficult to know if Miss Keller actually heard or imagined she heard. I have read of deaf people hearing in the air and even on trains. Who knows?"

DISCUSSES REACTIONS

As the plane taxied across the field, she said:

As it started to rise she said:

"Now I feel as if I were on a ship. I can feel the plane rise and fall and dip and roll and toss. It's just as if the waves were rocking the plane."

When she left the airplane at Washington Miss Keller thanked Pilot "Jake" Jacobs for her trip and said:

"I knew I was going to be safe when I touched your hand before the trip. I feel I have a great deal in common with air pilots. You understand more than any other people with sight, what it means to move in the dark."

CLOCK AGAIN MARKS TIME

The big clock in the tower of Old City Hall, which had not run for years, or since the country first used the building for its works department offices, is making off the minutes and hours again now that the department has moved to its quarters in the new county office building.

Clerks, exploring the tower in a final visit, tinkered with the clock and learned that a rod, operating the hands on the west face, had buckled. When the rod was disconnected, the clock began to tick merrily, and today was keeping perfect time.

Mechanism of the old clock is contained in a wood and glass box, and has remained free from dust and dirt. Mechanically, the timepiece seems perfect, and all of the equipment including the huge crank with which it is wound up, and the large rings fitted up with gas burners, by which the faces were illuminated at night, remains intact.

Illness Mars Visit of King Facing Operation May 7; To Visit Hoover April 29

PURCHASE, N. Y., April 22.—At the end of the long trail from the other side of the world, the King of Siam and his young queen arrived today in the little kingdom of Ophir Hall, set up for them during their visit to the United States.

POSE FOR PICTURES

Despite his recent illness the absolute monarch of Siam smiled happily and raised his occidental fedora hat as he and her majesty permitted the photographers to "shoot" them.

An automobile awaited them and they motored through lanes of cheering crowds and gaily decorated houses directly to their American home at the estate of Mrs. Whitelaw Reid.

Things are not as happy for the royal couple as they might be on this historic occasion. For the little King Prajadhipok—he is only 5 feet in height and weighs but 98 pounds—has been ill from an attack of malaria and bronchial trouble. And Queen Rambai is just recovering from a cold.

WILL VISIT HOOVER

Nor is this merely a royal jaunt. Their majesties visited the United States in 1924 before they were elevated to the responsibility of the throne. This time the visit is for the purpose of having a cataract removed from the left eye of King Prajadhipok.

An operating room is ready in Ophir Hall. Dr. John M. Wheeler, eminent New York surgeon, expects to perform the operation May 7.

But before this ordeal, King Prajadhipok will have a chance to enjoy himself. He and his consort will visit President Hoover in Washington, April 29. Imposing festivities will mark their visit to the capital.

There will be pageants and ceremonies glamourous in this vicinity—if the visiting potentates will accept invitations. And the royal pair will have an opportunity to play golf, tennis and bridge—occidental diversions at which both are adept.

MAYOR TO SEE VISITORS SOON

Mayor Kline, ill at St. Francis Hospital, will be able to see visitors within a few days if he continues to improve, his secretary, Frank Swaney, said today.

The Mayor has been confined there nearly three weeks, suffering from effects of an operation for removal of a carbuncle.

As soon as the Mayor is able, City Controller James P. Kerr will have him sign contracts for food and canned goods at Mayview and other city institutions. The contracts have been delayed by the executive's illness.

Charles A. Waldschmidt, city solicitor, ill for several weeks from pneumonia, returned to his office yesterday. He convalesced at Atlantic City, returning home a few days ago.

State Auto Death Increase Reported

Automobile accidents in Pennsylvania during the first three months of 1931 claimed 399 lives, 18 more than in the same period in 1930, a report issued today by the Pittsburgh Motor Club reveals. A total of 7,456 were injured during this period, a reduction of 210 from last year.

Automobile accidents during March claimed 123 lives and resulted in injury to 2,401 persons, reductions of four and 54, respectively, when compared with March of 1930. There was also a decrease of 613 in the number of vehicles involved in accidents last month.

POLICE EVADED BY STRANGLER

SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 22.—(AP.)—An apparent stalemate confronted officers today as they pursued a search for the slayer of 17-year-old Louise Teiber, whose unclothed body was found dangling from a tree on the outskirts of San Diego Sunday.

R. H. Newby, a photographer, retired Navy man and friend of the Teiber family, was arrested yesterday by officers, who said that among photographs in his possession was one of the pretty victim. He pleaded not guilty to a charge of possessing illegal pictures and was released on $500 bond.

Newby gave an account of his whereabouts the night of the slaying and identified the worn, oily rope with which Miss Teuber's body was suspended as a hammock lash such as is used by Navy men on hammocks and sea bags.

the Public Service Commission to operate buses between Wilmerding and McKeesport, that the rails of the Pittsburgh Railways Company in that section are unsafe.

McCahill, in announcing the probable abandonment of the Harmony line, said he knew it was in need of extensive repairs, but did not believe it was in a dangerous condition.

He said that lack of patronage was the major factor in bringing about plans for the abandonment of service. The route, he said, has not paid expenses for several years.

The Butler Short Line, bankrupt and with its roadbed and other facilities in a state of advanced decay, was serving the 70,000 or more persons along its route for the last time today.

Eleven buses will pass between Mars and Pittsburgh daily in each direction. Nineteen buses are scheduled for round trips between Gibsonia and Pittsburgh.

Popper made his charges against conditions of the trolley lines in the McKeesport district before Public Service Commissoner S. Ray Shelby, hearing his petition for a new bus line.

He said that the rails from Wilmerding through East McKeesport to McKeesport are in poor repair and dangerous.

Popper presented 15 witnesses who testified that it costs 50 cents to make a round trip from Braddock to East McKeesport, a journey which costs 20 cents under the proposed bus schedule.

22-STORY LEAP KILLS ACTRESS

NEW YORK, April 22.—(AP.)—Lillian Page Greer, of Chicago, a showgirl who made her last Broadway appearance in "Showboat," plunged to death from a window on the twenty-second floor of her hotel in Fifty-first street early today.

About midnight, while Horowitz was out of the room, Miss Greer complained of feeling ill. A moment later the other girls heard her scream and saw her plunge through the window.

Miss Greer was known on the stage as Lillian Page. She was married to Max Lipsey, of Chicago. A telegram found in her room said:

NEW BLUE LAW MODIFIER UP IN HOUSE

Denning Bill Would Allow Sunday Baseball Option; Reprisal Hits Goehring

ED PRENDERGAST
Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, April 22.—The Denning bill to give local option to counties desiring Sunday baseball, appeared on the House calendar today after being pushed out of the Elections Committee.

Dr. Joseph G. Steedle and other Allegheny County members, allied with the Philadelphia group on the committee, sent the measure out on a move to reconsider and got a favorable vote of 14 to 11.

It will keep the question of blue law repeal before the Legislature in spite of the defeat of the Schwartz amendment which would permit baseball on Sundays from 2 to 5 p. m.

This measure with the poll showing it beaten by two votes, 101 to 99 showed unexpected strength and a slight advance in addition to present support may bring the Denning bill into the Senate.

REPRISAL ON GOEHRING

Edward Goehring, one of the seven members of the Allegheny County yesterday who voted against liberalization of the blue laws yesterday, later in the day met some retribution at the hands of Clinton Sowers, Liberal leader from Philadelphia. Sowers had engineered the Schwartz bill to the brink of success in the House.

When a Goehring bill permitting boys over 12 years to act as caddies came up for a vote, Sowers showed his dislike of Goehring's vote by interrogating him, asking:

"Would you agree to an amendment preventing youthful caddies from working on Sunday?"

BILL DEFEATED

Goehring answered he would not object. Sowers then said to the House:

"In that event, I must vote and ask my friends to vote against the Goehring measure."

It lost by a vote of 93 to 68, and could have been carried had the Philadelphia unit supported it.

ELECTION CODE HELD UP

While the Elections Committee was forced to let this bill out, a 14 to 11 vote inversely was employed to "pickle" the election code, sponsored by D. Glenn Moore.

This marks another setback to the administration in the House, that up to the battle over the Musmano coal and iron police bill, was a steamrolled Pinchot organization. It was understood the Governor had felt the code was a favored measure.

At a later meeting of the committee, however, it is understood the code may be brought out onto the floor.

Railroad Measures Discussed in House

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 22.—(AP.)—Criticized by railroad officials and supported by representatives of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and Locomotive Engineers, four measures affecting railroads were discussed at a hearing before the House Labor Committee yesterday. The bills are: Dwyer, providing for full crews on freight trains; Fitzgerald, making changes in construction of cabooses; Hermansen, reuiring railroads to construct footwalks on bridges and viaducts; Post, requiring full crews on switching engines.

Bill Gives Politician Right to Sue State

HARRISBURG, April 22.—A bill to permit Patrick J. Colangelo, Clay way, Pittsburgh, to bring suit against the commonwealth was introduced in the House today by Representative Maloney, of Allegheny. Colangelo, a "Strip" politician, seeks to recover damages to his automobile.

GREATER CITY BILL REPORTED

HARRISBURG, April 22.—The charter proviso by which the municipalities of Allegheny County would be consolidated into a city to be called Pittsburgh, emerged from committee and reached the Senate floor today.

Sponsored by Senator James J. Coyne, the measure, in the form of a constitutional amendment, provides that the county shall become the city of Pittsburgh, regulated by a board of commissioners, and with the various cities, boroughs and townships holding substantial powers as divisions of the big city.

The principle change in this amendment over a previous one lies in its necessary vote. When and if this measure passes the Legislature twice and goes to the people, the bill will still require the majority of municipalities to poll a majority of the votes to make it into a law.

A constitutional amendment to legalize absent voters' ballots is also before the Senate today for second reading.

HARRIS SEEKS NEW SENATOR

HARRISBURG, April 22.—Senator Frank J. Harris, of Crafton, has taken the lead in a fight in the State Senate to get a seventh state senator for Allegheny County.

The 1930 census shows Allegheny County with sufficient populaion to be entitled to an additional member of the upper legislative house.

In a letter to Senator James S. Boyd, Montgomery County, the chairman of the Senate Committee on Legislative Apportionment, Senator Harris has demanded Boyd's committee act on a reapportionment which will give Allegheny the new senator which the Constitution grants it on its present population basis.

More than three weeks ago Senator Harris introduced a bill to redistrict the state for election of state senators. His bill provided seven instead of the present six for Allegheny.

U. S. AID DENIED UTILITY QUIZ

WASHINGTON, April 22.—(AP.)—Efforts of the public utilities investigating committee of the Pennsylvania House of Representatives to obtain information from the Federal Trade Commission relative to utilities in that state seemed doomed to failure.

Otis B. Johnson, secretary of the commission, said the commission has never recommended criminal prosecution of individuals connected with utility companies in Pennsylvania or elsewhere. Moreover, he added, the commission has no recommendations for indictments in its files.

NEEDY ALIENS GET FARE HOME

WASHINGTON, April 22.—(AP.)—Indigent aliens who ask to be returned to their native land may go at the expense of the United States provided they have been here legally less than three years.

This ruling was made by Comptroller General McCarl at the request of the Labor Department, which thought such action would aid the employment situation.

To receive government aid an alien must be without means and unable to obtain employment. He also must personally request the government to send him home.

Immigration Commissioner Hull said approximately 250 applications had been received, the greater number being from citizens of Great Britain. The cost of sending them home would be approximately $50 each.

HERRON BRIDGE WORK ASSURED

Reconstruction of the Herron Avenue Bridge was assured by Councilmanic action yesterday of setting aside $15,000 for engineering services to prepare plans and specifications. Other items provided for are salaries, miscellaneous services, supplies, materials and equipment.

More than $4,000 has been provided for temporary repairs for the bridge to care for extra traffic loads resulting from contemplated demolition of the Twenty-eighth Street Bridge for reconstruction.

Council has approved $60,000 to construct other spans, among them Duquesne Incline Bridge over Carson street, estimated at $18,000, and the Castor Street Bridge, to cost $5,000.

Put Your Faith In Konjola—Tens of Thousands Have To Their Everlasting Joy.

Experiences such as that of Mr. Harry T. Winchester, 31 Monument avenue, Charlestown, near Boston, are worth reading. He says: "An operation so weakened me that I could barely get about. I had no appetite and became bilious and weak. Konjola restored my appetite, regulated my stomach and liver, and brought me the first real relief I had known in years."

Mr. Harry Winchester

And now Mrs. Annie Goodrich, 144 Broadway, Chelsea, near Boston, has this to say: "I had rheumatic fever and my limbs became so swollen that I was helpless. I suffered frightfully and could not turn in bed without aid. Konjola helped me from the first. Today I am up and about and free from pain and misery. The swelling has left my limbs. I cannot recommend Konjola enough."

Konjola Proved Just the Medicine Required—Famous Medicine Continues to Make Good

The misery suffered by thousands of men and women with ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels has been relieved by Konjola. Even rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness yield, in hundreds of cases, to the power of this amazing medicine. And its effects are not temporary as is evidenced in the case of Mr. W. A. Collins, 5468 Hillcrest Street, Pittsburgh. He said:

Mr. W. A. Collins

"I endorsed Konjola over a year ago, telling how it removed the bloating and gas pains caused by undigested food. I took sixteen bottles in all and I have taken no medicine of any kind for my stomach in over a year. I am still enjoying the wonderful benefits that Konjola gave me. I heartily recommend that anyone suffering from a bad stomach give Konjola a trial."

No less convincing is the experience of Mrs. Elizabeth Hamilton, 8 Hanway Avenue, Bellevue Station, Pittsburgh. Here is her statement:

Mrs. Elizabeth Hamilton

"I suffered with a dreadful case of rheumatism for ten years. As time passed my left hand became more and more numb. Then my stomach became disordered and I lost all desire for food and did not sleep well at night. I began taking Konjola and soon experienced a wonderful change in my condition. I took eight bottles and my rheumatism was driven from my body, my digestion restored, and now I eat what I please without distress."

Here is what Mrs. Mary L. Saint, 50 Huston Street, Washington, Pa., has to say:

Mrs. Mary L. Saint

"I suffered with stomach trouble and rheumatism for five or six months. My stomach bloated and I had severe back pains. Things often turned black before my eyes and I did not sleep well at night. Three weeks' treatment with Konjola improved my condition amazingly. My stomach is normal, the pains have left my back and I sleep soundly at night. I shall continue with Konjola for my mother received wonderful benefit from it."

Konjola is sold by all Dow, Liggett and Mayflower drug stores, and by all leading druggists in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

Mr. Graves in News Again As Menjou's Rival in 'The Great Lover'

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1931, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, April 22.

Emerging into the news once more, Ralph Graves is to play Adolphe Menjou's successful rival in "The Great Lover."

The last few months of this young actor's checkered career have been spent at Metro Goldwyn-Mayer, where he is signed to a writing and acting contract. It was his work in "Flight" and "Dirigible" that won him this offer.

Graves is 31 years old. He was in pictures as far back as D. W. Griffith's "Dream Street," and has continued with varying success ever since. At one time he dropped to serials and comedies, but in the last two years has been making a steady comeback.

Ralph Graves

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

Fred Datig, Paramount casting director, selected his own double as the perfect type to play the casting director in "Let's Play King." The man chosen was Jack Baston, who is the same height as Datig, weighs the same, has the same color of hair and eyes and even an identical moustache. Baston, incidentally, has become noted on stage and screen as a portrayer of villains.

LATEST GOSSIP

Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and Joan Crawford will celebrate their second wedding anniversary in Europe on June 3 . . . Showing to what lengths the miniature golf courses are going to win back popularity, one in Hollywood posts a sign: "Hear Amos and Andy here" . . . Fifi Dorsay complains that a girl who resembles her is going about town signing her name to checks. Even I have been impersonated. Grant Withers called me up in great excitement last week. Someone using my name had tried to put the bee on him on a fake scandal story . . . Something new in double exposure is being offered by First National in "The Blue-Room Murder." Walter Huston, as district attorney, draws a diagram of the floor-plan of a house. You hear his voice describing the movements of the murder, and you see his finger pointing them out on the diagram. Tiny double-exposed figures appear and enact the crime.

Joan Crawford

ROOM FOR A RACKET

What's to keep a star from signing his name to some important paper when he carelessly gives his autograph to the milling crowds at premieres? This hobby is growing to the proportions of a nuisance. The legitimate fans, when the stars are glad to oblige, are being elbowed out by autograph-racketeers who make up books and sell them to certain shops. Recently at the fights a certain male star was approached with the usual request. When he had signed his name, the petitioner nodded with satisfaction. "I just wanted to be sure," he said. "Here's a summons for you." A story goes the rounds. I can't vouch for its authenticity, that a star recently became suspicious of one autograph seeker who asked him to sign on a certain line. Examining the book, he is said to have found a carbon paper beneath the blank sheet and beneath that a check cunningly placed so as the star's signature would be traced in the proper spot. Later, the racketeer would have gone over it with ink. At least one star is solving the problem by going to premieres armed with a rubber stamp of his signature. Others prefer to take the chance rather than disappoint their genuine fans.

Morticians Honor Retiring Officer

Nearly 500 funeral directors attended a testimonial banquet for W. Scott Newcomer, retiring secretary of the Allegheny County Association, at the Fort Pitt last evening. Mr. Newcomer, secretary for 28 years, was presented with a life membership in the association, and an electric chime clock. Mrs. Newcomer was given a bouquet of flowers.

WALTER WINCHELL
On Broadway

Broadway

Sing a song of golden girls
Dancing in revues;
Sing a song of twinkling legs
Tipped with silver shoes.

Sing a song of tinsel,
Tarnished tears and tights;
Sing a song of laughing lips
Framed with colored lights.

Sing a song of heartbreak
Underneath the paint;
Glory be to Broadway—

Character

Readers of this pillar probably know Mrs. Holtz, 66, mother of Lou Holtz, the "You Said It" star. Her dialect stories have been recorded here often. She is a gentle and amusing woman, and a bit of a critic. Lou tells how she dislikes long distance calls because they are so costly. Thus when he was in California and he phoned her nightly, he could never get her into a conversation. All she was interested in was his health.

So when he called, she yelled:

"Looey?"

"Yes, ma; the weather here is—"

"Never mind. How are you filing?"

"I'm feeling good, ma."

And she disconnected.

Making It Public

The other night one of Lou's pals called the house and asked for him. Mrs. Holtz yelled into the phone:

"Naw, hizz not humm! Besites hizz got a deefrant goil every night—hizz kipping tarrible hours—hizz spanding moreh fullishly yat—and hizz not coming hum for furr nights already—who's diss culling, plizz?"

A Form of Criticism

Mrs. Holtz, it appears, enjoys those shows which have singing and dancing. Otherwise the show is rotten. Lou spent a lot of coin to get her a ticket to see "Grand Hotel," the town's best drama. She walked out on it after Act II. Lou asked:

"What's the matter? Why didn't you like it?"

She growled:

Professional Jealousy

Then there was the time she was sitting in a box at the Winter Garden and Al Jolson was knocking the audience dead. They acclaimed him boisterously after one song, the applause lasting fully two minutes.

Mrs. Holtz sizzled with jealousy. She was burning to a crisp over the deafening demonstration. Finally she turned to the applauders next to her and, between facial contortions, she screamed:

"You t'ink Julsin is good, hah? You should see mine boy, Looey Hultzzz—he bitts heem to PIECES!!!"

Golly!

And Charles G. Shaw reports that times are so tough over his way that the boys who used to take wooden nickels are now satisfied with sawdust.

Tee, Hee

When Peggy Joyce was polishing off the rough edges of her new vaudeville act last week, she suddenly remembered that she had not arranged for any curtain raising music. The orchestra, however, had thought of it, and played "Give Me Something to Remember You By."

Peggy didn't care for that, at all. At the Palace Theater rehearsal Saturday morning, when the subject again came up, she turned to Austin Fairman, the leading man (said to be her newest crush) and cooed:

"I think we ought to have them play: 'Falling in Love Again.'"

Peggy looked at Fairman roguishly as she sang the first four bars of that ditty. Ah, me.

However, someone objected to that music on the ground that it was not zippy enough, and said:

"I'll tell you what. Why not have them play something appropriate like Walter Donaldson's new song: 'Hello Beautiful?'"

Peggy cried:

And they hang pictures!

Imagine!!!

It happened at the Club Argonaut, Friday, about 4:30 in the yawning. Two men and a woman were handed a check for $9.95. The woman's drunken companions had no coin and all she had was a five dollar bill.

There was a great to-do about it around the head waiter's desk. He instructed the coat-room not to give up the men's hats and coats. A stranger to the trio, overhearing the commotion, paid the $4.45 difference.

Not one of the drunks thanked him. One of the men, however, buttonholed the stranger and between hiccoughs said:

"Say, listen. How about a dollar for cab fare?"

The stranger handed over the dollar. A columnist watching the scene said:

"I beg your pardon, but that was pretty decent of you. What's your name?"

And the reply was:

"MacPherson."

Portrait

Irving Caesar, who wrote many of Jolson's lyrics in "Wonder Bar," was talking about Benneh Holzman, the renowned press agent, the other night. Holzman, it appears, is one of the few Broadwavites who leads a clean life. He never drinks, he seldom smokes, and he keeps good hours. Caesar said:

"At 8 o'clock in the morning, Holzman has already been lonesome three hours!"

Add Depression Items

John Sheehan, the comedian in "America's Sweetheart," offers this as an illustration of the depression. The other day an actor, having heard of a part that suited him in a new play now rehearsing, called up his booking agent and told him to rush right over to see the producer and get him the role.

The agent went over and took the job himself.

Sotto Voce

Jerry Colker: You have me there, 'eller. He was police commissioner. My error.

A. B. C.: One of the Utica papers quotes a Supreme Court judge as saying you cannot get a divorce without publicity in Oneida County in two weeks but another Utica paper ran a story saying it was possible if you made the right connections and the 20 days' answer gag didn't matter if the husband or wife answered within 24 hours or so. Sorry, cannot give you names of lawyers, etc.

The Retort Lovely

Norman Anthony was gaying it one night in a Broadway sinspot. When he claimed his hat from the hat girl, he placed a dollar on the counter of the cloakroom.

She picked up the dollar, deposited it in a slot, and said:

"Thanks."

Norman snapped:

"Just a minute. Gimme back 75 cents. I only parked it—I didn't want it blocked!"

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Crane Wilbur, who plays a male lead in "On the Spot," racketeer melodrama, also is a playwright. He wrote the chiller, "The Monster," which appeared here several seasons ago. Anna May Wong, who gave an oriental touch to many silent films, does that same little thing for the vehicle coming to the Alvin. Seat shopping begins on the morrow.

* * *

When a minor actor "steals the show," as one frequently does, he is looked upon as a real burglar by the star.

* * *

"Strange Interlude," which will be presented by the George Sharp Players in the Pitt next week for the benefit of the local restaurateurs, has never been presented at a matinee. But it will be here—at a pair of them, Thursday and Saturday. They begin at 11 a. m., with an eats period at 1 o'clock. Gladys George, now leading woman, will play Nina Leeds.

* * *

Small Timer says he doesn't care for social dancing, because dancing is only petting to music and he doesn't like so much accompaniment.

* * *

Pete Higgins fans may now compose themselves—Pete will stay in the Stanley a second week, this one to begin on a Friday, just as the first did. Peter is another local boy who made good in the big city. Just by singing for his supper. Also his dinner, breakfast, lodging and any snacks in between.

Comedian

OFFICER GUILTY OF BEATING MAN

City Patrolman Joseph Kaminsky will be sentenced Friday by Visiting Judge James A. Chambers, of Lawrence County, following his having been found guilty in Criminal Court of assault and battery late yesterday.

It was testified by Victor Brovenson, of Friendship avenue, that the patrolman had struck him four times with his mace, felling him with the first blow and striking thee others while he was on the ground, on February 5, when the patrolman had ordered him to move on at Liberty avenue and Edmond street. He was taken to St. Francis Hospital for treatment. The patrolman contended he struck the man only once, when he resisted arrest.

EPISCOPALIANS HIT WAR CLAUSE

WASHINGTON, April 22.—(INS.)—The Protestant Episcopal Church today joined the American Society of Friends in opposing the government's claim to the right to bar conscientious objectors to war from naturalization.

In a brief given the Supreme Court on behalf of a dozen dignitaries of the Episcopal Church, Emily Marx asserted that principles involved in the naturalization case of Marie Averill Bland vitally affect the church.

Miss Bland, a former Canadian war nurse and Episcopalian, it is pointed out, was denied naturalization because she would not take an oath to bear arms for the government in time of war. She won in the Circuit Court and the government appealed. The Episcopals, in supporting her case in the high court, explained their church had declared "war as a method of settling international disputes is incompatible with the teaching and example of our Lord Jesus."

Pinchot's Coal Police Measure Re-Framed

containing all the bad features of its predecessor. At the same time the American Federation of Labor demanded Senate action on the Musmanno coal and iron police bill from Senator William H. Earnest, whom Musmanno previously had accused of sidetracking the measure in the Judiciary Committee, of which he is chairman.

John A. Phillips, president of the state A. F. L., headed a delegation which called on Earnest in behalf of the Musmanno bill, which the delegation insisted it wants, while condemning the administration measure.

TWO TYPES OF GUARDS

Amendments made to the Wilson bill provide for two classes of property guards, one a stationary force to be kept on the property of the company employing them, and the other a mobile force of 250 property service men.

Gov. Pinchot reiterated his previous statement that all commissions for industrial policemen would be cancelled on July 1.

Amendments made to the bill, the Governor's statement says, will prevent deputy sheriffs in pay of companies from being in full control in certain industrial fields during disputes. The protective service force of 250 cannot be used as "a mobile army of strike-breakers to be increased when strikes occur."

The Governor expressed the hope that the amended Wilson bill solved the problems that have arisen, especially in Western Pennsylvania over coal and iron police.

The amended Wilson bill was reported from the Law and Order Committee. It is the plan to have it pass one or two readings and then be recommitted. By reporting out the measure the bill including the amendments will be printed and available for distribution and study.

MUSMANNO'S STATEMENT

Musmanno, whose bills set up a system of property guards and wipe out the industrial police, in his statement declared:

"The new coal and iron police plan proposed by the Governor is equally as bad as the previous one submitted by him. It still gives these corporation police unlimited powers; it still makes them irresponsible, financially and otherwise; it still gives them power to rove all over the state; it still puts the state in the shameful position of selling its sovereign police power; it does not limit the number of these police to 250 because the bill says that number may be appointed from time to time, so that the Governor could appoint 250 this week, 250 next week and so on until an army is created.

"The Governor admits that all the plants need is property guards. I already have a bill, passed by the House with a huge majority, which provides for property guards. If this meets the situation why doesn't the Governor accept it?

"The new bill of the Governor does not prevent the appointment of deputy sheriffs. These protective service men can be used as a mobile army of strike-breakers in the hands of a Governor inimical to labor. The new bill, in effect, merely changes the name. It is bad legislation and, as much as I regret to oppose the Governor, I will work indefatigably for its defeat."

PINCHOT STATEMENT

Gov. Pinchot, in his statement, said:

"Soon after I came into office I redeemed my campaign pledge to abolish the coal and iron police by terminating the commission of every coal and iron policeman on June 30 next, so that on July 1, 1931, there will not remain a single coal and iron policeman in the state of Pennsylvania.

"During the campaign I said repeatedly that I had made plenty of mistakes in the past, and would doubtless make plenty more in the future. One such mistake was that a number of provisions which should have been in the Wilson trade police bill (House bill No. 1035) were omitted in the draft that was introduced. These omitted provisions would have changed the whole character of the bill, and would have prevented most of the objections which have been made.

"I believe the bill as amended meets the needs of the situation with entire fairness both to labor and to capital. Its enactment cannot and will not result in discrimination, oppression, or unfairness on either side. By providing a trained impartial body of men under state control, you will prevent deputy sheriffs in the pay of the companies from being in full control in certain industrial fields during industrial disputes, and so help to free the workers from the oppression they have suffered from deputies, as well as from coal and iron policemen, in the past.

NEED DOUBTED

"The great majority of the plants which have been employing coal and iron police do not, in fact, need anything more than property guards. For such guards the Wilson bill, as amended, makes full provision. In addition to property guards, it provides for only 250 protective service men, as against the 1,200 coal and iron police, whose commissions I have revoked as of June 30 next.

"The proposed protective service is not and cannot be used as a mobile army of strike-breakers to be increased when strikes occur—and employed to break them. There are too few of them in the first place, and they cannot be hired and fired at short notice at the will of the companies. The protective service men will be permanently employed.

"After the bill passes, I propose to ascertain from the industries which now have industrial policemen under the Mansfield act exactly how many protective service men they desire to use, and I propose to recruit only so many within the limit of 250 set by the law, plus a reserve force which will be limited to barely enough to provide for replacements of men absent by reason of vacation, sickness, etc.

MUSMANNO RAPS DELAY

While Gov. Pinchot was announcing the changes in his own coal police measure, Musmanno was telling delegates to the annual convention of the State Federation of Labor that unless the Legislature passes his rival police measures at the present session there will be little hope of ever arousing sufficient interest in them to assure their passage.

Reminding the delegates that the House had passed his two bills on March 24, Musmanno said that since that time they had reposed in the Senate Committee on judiciary general despite his efforts to have them reported to the Senate for passage. This failure to act on his measures, he said, must be placed on Senator Earnest. Musmanno said:

"He (Earnest) has been deaf to all my entreaties; he has neglected to answer the letter I wrote him requesting consideration for my bills."

The labor delegation made its call on Earnest shortly after the session had heard Musmanno.

Gov. Pinchot, in another formal statement, scored the interests who are endeavoring to block the passage in the General Assembly of the bill creating the fair rate board and a new election code. He urged voters to ask their senators and representatives to work for the enactment of both measures, asserting:

"I want you to realize that we have reached the time when the Legislature is deciding between your interests and somebody else's."

Drivers Exonerated In Crash Killing Two

CUTS SILK HOSE BILLS IN TWO

A New York fashion expert has found a simple, easy method to double the wear of silk hose and undergarments. These articles, worn next to the skin, wear out doubly fast because of the perspiration and other body excretions which soften and rot the silk.

This expert found that soap and water were inadequate for washing such articles. She recommends when washing silks to add a tablespoonful of Energine to every quart of lukewarm, soapy water. Wash and rinse as usual. This method not only cleans thoroughly and quickly but makes silks like new with revived colors and pleasing freshness. With Energine the results over soap and water alone will amaze you. It means longer life—real economy.

Energine is unexcelled also for quickly removing all dirt and grease spots from dresses, hats, gloves and ties. Large can 35 cents at any drug store.

Tex Spurns America

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Tex Guinan is touring Europe with a night club. She is going to show the old folks what happens in an American flea bag between twilight and dawn.

Europe knows. That was what the armistice was all about in 1918.

We have already suggested that Tex could improve things by spending a night at the North Pole. But if she thinks she is going to show Paris and Berlin anything new she is as dizzy as a seasick sailor in a revolving turret.

The creep joints, drums and speaks started in Europe. They also have laws over there. But it's something like a curfew in charge of a soused bell ringer.

Cover charges started in Paris. Gigolos are an established habit. They plaster you 10 bills for a bottle of middle-aged champagne even though they have cheaper paints, oils and varnishes.

They've been singing and dancing in Europe for some time and Tex will be no novelty. If she is smart she will grab hold of the east end of the Vassar dairy chain, study conscientiously and try to go to Europe on a Rhodes scholarship.

She is going to get a shock when they mug her for the passport picture. That shocks everybody. The best thing you can do with your passport vise is to point at the portrait and holler, "That's an impostor."

And, Texxie, when the gendarmes nail you in Paris they don't sign you up for your autobiography. They toss you into the shade and hold you incommunicado. That means you spend the next three days trying to dial a telephone with boxing gloves on.

The main rap is the passport picture. We know many ladies who took one squint at what the government camera thinks of them and then said, "I don't think I'll go. I'm much prettier at home."

Tex hasn't been so comfortable in New York since she challenged Grover Whalen. The high hat fooled her.

She has had a lot of fun and taught many a hickabola how to drum on a table with a little wooden hammer. But somehow that doesn't seem so hilarious in the daytime.

And when you count your money the next day there ain't enough to prevent your entire hand from getting sunburned.

Another bit of advice. The European butter-and-egg men never leave the farm. If they mix anything it's going to be butter and eggs.

So why not stay home and wait till things blow over. We have an election every four years.

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Do Men Like Long or Short Tresses on Girls?

We thought that the "bob or not to bob" argument had been chloroformed long ago.

Yep—Agnes wants to know if it's her long flowing hair, which she winds in abundant braids about her head, that keeps Prince Charming from falling for her in a big way.

Has Beautiful Hair

"My friends say that men don't like me because I look old-fashioned," she wails, "and one man did ask me why I didn't cut off my 'mop'—

"Do you think that's true . . . Don't men appreciate 'old-fashioned girls?' Must they have snappy modern numbers?"

Being a careful gal, I'm not going to try to answer that question. I'm going to leave it up to the big boys themselves . . .

So come on, Hank—Bill—Thomas. Get in on Agnes' letter, and then give us the low-down.

Dear Miss Martin:

"I always read your column with the utmost interest, especially the questions and answers about problems that are vital to the everyday life around us. And now I have a problem of my own.

I have never asked for advice before, and I do not know whether my small troubles are worth your time or not, but they are very important to me, so here I am.

"I am a slightly homely girl, 23 years old, and my only claim to beauty is my hair, which everyone tells me is very beautiful indeed. It is dark brown, with red lights in it, it is very thick on my head, and reaches almost to my knees.

Old-Fashioned

"What troubles me is that, while I am not good looking, I am, I think, rather above the average, mentally. I enjoy dancing, and doing all the other things that most girls do to have a good time. But I do not seem to ever attract men, as other girls do . . . and so I have few chances to go out . . .

"My girl friends all say it is because I look so 'old-fashioned,' with my long braids of hair wound around my head . . . and one young man has asked me why I didn't cut that mop off."

"Now, while I love my beautiful long hair dearly, and it makes my heart beat more quickly to think of the shears ever touching it, I am willing to make the sacrifice, if you think that cutting it will make me more popular.

"Not that I am man-crazy at all . . . or that men are necessary to my existence . . . But I am a normal girl, with all a normal girl's desire for fun and friends. I would like some masculine companions, and I hope that some day I will make a good wife for some nice man.

Hair Troublesome

"What do you think? Don't men appreciate an 'old-fashioned girl?' Must they have snappy modern numbers?

"I hope I have not written too long a letter, or one that seems foolish to you. Maybe it is hard to understand; but my hair is a real, real trouble to me, even if I do love it.

I hope that you'll be able to find a little space in your column to answer me some day, and help me out. I just don't know what to do, myself.

"AGNES."

Well, boys. There she is—the sort of girl your mother used to be.

What's your verdict?

Now that you've seen Exhibit A, do you still prefer 'em Old-Fashioned, as you have so often boasted? Do you still crave a Modest Maiden, with her hair—and her manners—in neat braids? Or must your sweetie be a cut-down, neck-shave, 1931 model?

Think it over—then grab your pen and break the news to Agnes.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

An Engagement Ring Is Not A "Public Ceremony"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be engaged very soon, on my birthday. We are going to have a large affair. My fiance is rather timid and does not know what is proper to say at the occasion of giving me the ring at the table, and he is afraid he might say something that would be incorrect. Can you furnish me with something that he may be sure will be correct? S. W.

I am sure that your fiance would be relieved if I should suggest that I think that it would be far better form for him to give you your ring when you two are alone, rather than when there is a gathering of this kind. Why not do this? It isn't good form, really, to give the ring in this "public" way. Usually the ring is given when the two people most concerned are alone together, and then, on the occasion of the announcement-party, the girl slips the ring on her hand just before the announcement is to be made.

A "Miss" Answers the Telephone

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

In a business office when a single girl answers the telephone and upon being asked "Who is speaking?" should she say, "Miss Brown" or "Mary Brown?"

There has been a discussion in regard to this, and your advice on this subject will be appreciated a great deal. I. A.

She should use the formal Miss Brown when she answers the telephone in a business office.

Just Isn't Done Nowadays

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Is it correct for a lady to take her partner's arm when leaving the floor after a dance?

2. Should he offer his arm to his partner?

W. E. and D. F.

1. No, this isn't "done" nowadays.

2. No, this isn't "done" either.

Many Romantic Girls Find 'Great Love' Only 'Great Mistakes'—Fay King

By FAY KING

Many romantic minded young girls imagine that no love can be a really great love unless it is all hemmed in with difficulties and general disapproval.

To be attracted to a bright boy who lives in the next block, of whom the family and friends are decidedly in favor, surely isn't a great love.

But let her meet some man, who is married, or who has made two or three previous wives so miserably unhappy they were driven to divorce and little Miss Romance makes up her mind that here is great love.

Argument and reasoning only fan the flames of her defiance and determination the higher.

Madge Sees Edith Fairfax While Leaving Train

I never felt more like diving into the crowd as a rabbit might into a briar patch than when I caught sight of Edith Fairfax waiting at the ropes which divide the train passengers from those who have come to greet them. For a panic-stricken second I thought that in some occult way she had found out my errand to Robert Savarin's home, and had come to taunt me with her knowledge. Then sanity returned to me, and I reasoned that she no doubt was waiting for some friend or for some person in connection with her magazine work. But that premise did not banish the possibility of trouble for me which her recognition of me would mean.

Had she seen me. That was the question which was caroming through my brain as I kept my place in the line of passengers proceeding through the narrow opening. I did not dare try to get ahead or to fall behind, knowing that any unusual action in the crowd would attract her keen eyes.

It seemed like an hour, that progress through the gates, but it really consumed but a few seconds. I kept my eyes furtively on Edith, knowing that if she had seen me, she could not help letting her eyes stray in my direction again, even though she were determined to ignore the meeting. I was just assuring myself that she had not seen me, when I saw her start, and she made a quick movement forward, her hand thrown up in the little salute of recognition so often seen across the ropes at the incoming trains.

I only had the infinitesimal fraction of a second in which to decide my course, but I did decide it. I flatter myself, with no outward evidence of perturbation. I had my eyes veiled and I did not raise the lids as I went steadily on in the wake of the other passengers, looking neither to the right nor the left. To all appearances I had not seen her.

Would she leave her post, follow me, and speak to me, I wondered, or would she bide her time, and tell Dicky as if casually of my arrival at the station from a through New York Central train? I hoped the latter, for then I would have time to cope with the necessity of parrying Dicky's questions, while I had no idea of what I should say to her if she came up to me, and rallied me, as I was sure she would upon my "mystery journey," as she no doubt would term it.

But I was mercifully spared that particular ordeal, and I hastened out of the station, taking the first taxicab I could find, and directing the man to drive to the hotel. But I had the feeling all the way that I had left a particularly succulent morsel of scandal beneath the paws of a gloating pussy cat.

Mary was waiting for me in the living room of the apartment, and she gave an almost imperceptible nod toward Dicky's room, letting me know that he was awake.

"Did you find any reindeer?" she asked in tones that could have been heard in the bedroom.

"No, I couldn't," I returned, "and I've searched everywhere." I salved my conscience with the reflection that the statement was true if the implication that I had just completed the search was not. "Did Purnell have any luck?"

"Did he?" Mary caroled, and I realized that she was "playing up." I felt miserably abased at having dragged her into even so mild a deceit. "I'll tell the world he did. Let me show you what that boy dragged home at 20 cents per?"

She darted into her bedroom and came back with an immense cardboard box, from which she took one of the most realistic looking little reindeer I ever had seen. From its sweeping horns to its tiny hoofs it was perfect in coloring, and shape while its composition made it almost as light as the traditional feather.

"Just the thing," I pronounced, taking the little thing in my hands, and Mary laughed amusedly.

"Aren't you the conservative thing though?" she said. "Here I've been running the gamut of the adjectives from adorable to marvelous."

"Then there's nothing more to say," I told her smiling, just as Dicky sauntered in from the bedroom.

"Where've you been all the morning?" he said, but Mary quickly interposed and spared me the necessity for answering.

"Isn't that just like a man?" she said, making a saucy little face at her uncle. "He hasn't been awake more than an hour at the outside, and the heaviest exercise he's had is to lift food to his mouth—he had his breakfast sent up here. And you've been dashing around shopping for hours, and then he wants an accounting. I know what I'd tell him—gracious!" she shot an apparently perturbed glance at her wrist watch, "do you know it's only 15 minutes until the dining room closes. Or have you had lunch?"

"No, I haven't," I admitted, and Mary fairly leaped toward me.

"And I haven't had either breakfast or lunch," she said. "I've been waiting for you. Come along. I'm starved and I'll bet you are."

Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

There's one girl who will never line up in the beauty parade. It is the femme with the cold, suspicious, fishy eye and the chilly handshake. She has failed to learn that friendliness, graciousness, ease of manner are qualities of beauty that are beyond price. Nice eyes smile. They send kindly messages. Cold eyes are suggestive of cruelty. Nobody likes them. They throw one into a state of goose's flesh.

White of egg forms an astringent face mask that helps pores to contract and which has an excellent effect upon excessive oiliness of the skin. Beat the egg white slightly, so it can be handled conveniently. Spread it on lightly, using only half the portion. When the first application has dried, put on a second coating. Lave away in 5 or 10 minutes, using tepid water. Apply cold compresses.

Hair ornaments are interesting. Nice for the long bob when there are clusters of ringlets at the rear to be held in place. Snail shells are used to form nosegays to be placed over one ear when a girl is attired for the merry evening or the great occasion. Piquant combs are placed up and down when the swirl crosses the back of the head and ends in a riot of curls. Combs are in white metal, amber, jade green or Chinese red. Effective in brown or black tresses.

Permanent waves are still going strong. Every woman concedes that the hard-boiled curl is a marvelous and wonderful idea. Methods have improved. Waves are wider. The process is completed in less than half the time that was necessary a few years back. Women have learned how to make permanents behave, to moisten them, pet them, pat them into alluring patterns. Brushing doesn't harm them; only makes them crazy for the moment. Combing out straight, applications of brilliantine or hot water together with clever manipulations, put them in form again.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Thursday, April 23

A lively and progressive day is presaged from the fortuitous reign of the business planets in favorable aspect with Luna. Employment is under happy auspices for recognition and favoritism of superiors; new projects are also under benefic sway, and new contracts and agreements may be successfully engineered. Although the energies and faculties will be under excellent stimuli.

Those whose birthday it is are at the threshold of a very active and energetic year, with things moving in the direction of practical progress and promotion in new ventures and in employment.

A child born on this day should be clever, talented, resourceful and disposed to seek high adventure either in the employment of others or in expressing its own keen initiative.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Careful Diet Important Aid in Fighting Colds

It is only recently that I wrote on the subject of colds. But I cannot refrain from again warning you against this common ailment.

The common cold is one of the greatest enemies of the public health. It is all too frequent in its occurrence and in many instances can be prevented.

Dr. Copeland

The medical adviser at Cornell University has inaugurated a campaign against colds. This is the first time that any university has organized a plan for combatting colds. If all similar institutions and the public in general took notice of the necessity of guarding against colds, there would be a great decrease in this ailment.

A cold causes more unnecessary suffering, inconvenience, and economic loss than most persons realize. The statistics gathered on this disease are staggering. In spite of its menace, little progress has been made in cutting down the prevalence of the disease.

The treatment of the "cold preventive classes" held at Cornell includes weekly exposure to the ultra violet light, and instruction regarding diet and ventilation. In special cases, careful study of the nose and throat is made. The use of vaccines will be utilized wherever possible.

Diet is important in the prevention of colds. You should eat nourishing food. Milk, fresh fruit and leafy vegetables should be included in your daily diet.

Drink plenty of water. At least six to eight glasses of water should be consumed every day. Excess of coffee and tea are not advised. Contrary to the common impression, according to the Cornell experiment, whisky is more likely to bring on a cold than to prevent one.

Sleep eight hours every day. This helps to ward off attacks. If you feel a cold coming on, it is best to remain in bed. Frequently a day away from work will prevent the necessity of a longer absence from work.

Your home and place of business should be well ventilated. The air should be moist. The temperature indoors should be between 68 and 72 degrees.

If the weather is cold, dress accordingly. Avoid chilling the body and keep away from persons who have colds. If you have a cold, guard others from getting it from you.

Above all, if you have a cold do not neglect it. Go to your doctor, so that he may prescribe for you and instruct you. Do not rely on "home treatment" and patent medicines.

Answers to Health Queries

T. T. N. Q.—What can be done for a red bloodshot vein in the center of the eye?

J. W. B. Q.—Is there any chance of complete recovery from gastric ulcer in a man of 46? The patient has been on a diet and has gained eight pounds, but there is still slight soreness in the pit of the stomach and heartburn at times. What would you advise?

A.—Follow your doctor's advice and instructions most faithfully. Proper diet and general care should bring about general improvement.

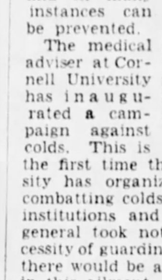
Household Hints

To peel an onion properly, hold it with a fork, cut off the top and bottom and the outer skin will then come off easily.

Pour boiling water over apples which are to be cooked. You will find that they peel much easier and as a result time will be saved.

The points may be renewed on blunt orange sticks merely by carefully running them through the pencil sharpener.

For removing silk from corn when preparing it for the table, or for canning purposes, a small handbrush is better and quicker than the fingers.



MOTHERS now learn value of MAGNESIA

Because it is so helpful in keeping babies and children healthy and happy, every mother should learn all about Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

This harmless, almost tasteless preparation is most effective in relieving those symptoms of babies and children generally caused by souring food in the little digestive tract, such as sour belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, colic. As a mild laxative, it acts gently, but certainly, to open the little bowels in constipation, colds, children's diseases.

A teaspoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia does the work of half a pint of lime water in neutralizing cow's milk for infant feeding, and preventing hard curds. Its many uses for mother and child are fully explained in the interesting book "Useful Information." It will be sent you, FREE. Write The Phillips Co., 170 Varick St., New York, N. Y.

In buying, be sure to get only genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 50 years.

ACID STOMACH!

Here's a pleasant way to Get Rid of It

A bubbling effervescent drink that sets acid stomachs right in a jiffy. Tastes so good you'll like it for its taste alone. It has been FAMED in Europe since 1880. Italians drink it as we do soda water and it's an antacid that has no rival. So good even small children take it without coaxing. Gently laxative and altogether delicious. This easy pleasant way to rid yourself of hyperacidity is called

CLIMAX CLEANER brings you bright clean Walls .....at small cost

CLIMAX Cleaner will make your walls as clean and bright as the rest of your house—at a fraction of the cost of redecorating. It restores all the original freshness and color to wall paper and plaster walls—easily and quickly.

Why neglect your walls? Give them the same thoughtful attention you give your personal attire—the same care you give your windows, your floors, your bath fixtures. Certainly just as much dirt accumulates on wall paper as on woodwork.

Climax also cleans window shades, cretonne or chintz curtains and tapestries. It is especially recommended for cleaning sanitas, antique or textured plaster walls done in flat tone paint or glazed. Easy to use—doesn't crumble—just follow the instructions on the blue-labeled can.

MOVIE STARS ON AIR TONIGHT; RICE TO INTERVIEW AUTHOR

The Loudspeaker

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, April 22.—Artists who are not presentable in face and figure are gradually being weeded out of the broadcasting gardens.

Not knowing just when television will poke her mysterious nose around the corner in radio, the broadcasters do not intend to be caught napping. They appreciate that soon the eyes, as well as the ears, may have it, and they plan to be prepared with those who are as easy to look upon as to hear.

A review of the battleship fleet will soon appear on the broadcasting schedules. A review of the rum fleet will probably bring more people to the armchairs.

Radio speakers continue to talk about "the joys of Paris." The joys of New York, said by revelers to be infinitely greater than those of Paris, are still unhonored and unsung.

Of all artists, musicians find in radio the land of regular and well-paid employment. They receive, in case you're inquisitive, $18 apiece for a half hour concert and an hour's rehearsal and $24 for an hour's program and a two-hour rehearsal. It doesn't matter whether the notes be those of Berlin or Beethoven.

* * *

What has happened to the hill billy songs that were supposed to take the nation by storm? Ever since "Springtime in the Rockies" and "When Your Hair Has Turned to Silver" topped best-seller lists, music publishers have been turning out this type of song by the bushel, but they can't seem to follow up their first success.

* * *

According to Henry Busse, dance bandman, that has always been the rule in the songshops.

"When 'Dardanella' was at its height, oriental songs were the rage, but not one clicked. 'Yes, We Have No Bananas' brought on an epidemic of food songs, but none had the vogue of the first one. Believe it or not, nothing has followed 'Peanut Vendor' and that goes for Mama Inez' and the rest, as far as sales are concerned."

* * *

Song-picking is an art in itself. Those who master it—and few have done so—ride swiftly to fame and a bank directorship. Right now the melody men are deeply concerned with the cheer-up type of ditty, and their activity causes Kate Smith, robust crooner, to become for a moment a teacher of psychology. Hark to Kate:

"When people are starving, they don't want to sing about 'happy days.' The only time to tell 'em that conditions will improve is when they're great. A contented man will sing 'prosperity is around the corner,' and tunes of that ilk, but the only thing they hum on the breadline is ballads."

* * *

Life in the songshops today must be more than ever like life at the gaming tables of the Riviera, or, if you prefer, Reno adventurous, fascinating, exciting, the element of chance ever present. Old standards are no longer reliable. Even those three formerly most dependable themes—romance, roses and rivers no longer carry assurance of certain success.

WE NOW PRESENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

A radio night that brings us beaucoup relaxation in Evelyn Herbert, George Bancroft, Aileen Stanley and Anita Page, also brings us something serious in the first weekday appearance of Charles Francis Coe, fearless exposer of the underworld . . . Coe, scheduled to be interviewed by Grantland Rice on WCAE at 10:30, has received four letters threatening his life if he dares to reveal more secrets of gangsters tonight . . . Nothing so beautifully touching as "Mother" from "My Maryland," to be sung by Miss Herbert, WCAE at 8:30 . . . David Barnum, blackface comedian (KDKA at 9:30), is no relation of the late circus magnate.

QUESTION A DAY:

Were scenes for that movietone "Salute" actually taken in KDKA studios?—Frankie J., Bloomfield.

Answer—No. A KDKA microphone which no doubt gave you this impression was shipped to the movie studios of a large company in New York and used in the setting. You will recall that it was necessary for Frederick G. Rodgers, narrator of the "Salute," to make many trips to New York during the filming of this "tough spot" spectacle. Ruth Etting and Nathaniel Shilkret's Orchestra were featured. We thought Fred was superb in his first camera experience.

Kate Smith has given NBC the air—all of it—to sing with CBS in a new series to be heard Sunday at 8:15 and Friday at 7:45—to be known as "Kate Smith and Her Swanee Music."

STUDIO LIGHTS

Helen Keller's talk on CBS-WJAS this morning was not the first on the radio as widely heralded . . . we remember back in 1925 or 1926 that she was interviewed for the KDKA audience by Percy Boyd, director of press relations . . . she sensed what Mr. Boyd said by placing her fingers over his lips . . .

Station XIBT of the Pittsburgh Advertising Club, lost its wavelength yesterday . . . operations have been suspended until Thursday, the 30th., when Bob Wood introduces Raymond Knight "Ambrose J. Weems" . . . as guest announcer . . .

KDKA offers Efrem Zimbalist, violinist, next Tuesday night at 9 o'clock. . .he is to play two Kreisler fancies, "Caprice Viennois" and "Tambourin Chinois". . .

Because of their slogan, "The Crazy Pair," Riggs and Moke (WCAE at 11), have the perfect alibi when anything goes wrong in their program. . .

Conestoga Days returns to KDKA at 9 tonight by popular request. . .Don Sandros is the singer, guitar player you have asked us about in this feature. . .

"Oedipus Rex" was OK . . . what there was of it. . .this sort of radio feature can never be made appreciative until the whole thing is presented with proper interpretative remarks by the announcer. . .

MANY HOMES ENDANGERED BY FLAMES

Volunteer Firemen Battle Blaze in Many Districts; Airplanes in Patrol Duty

A much needed spring rain today checked brush and forest fires which raged over many sections of Western Pennsylvania yesterday and last night.

Starting from an unknown cause, fire at 8 p. m. raged over a mountainside on the William Penn highway near Blairsville, destroying several hundred acres of timber, a number of small houses and threatening to envelope the entire mountain.

Roy Smeltzer, 40, was slightly burned when a stretch of timber on the hillside overlooking Edgecliff, opposite Natrona, caught fire early last night and threatened a 75,000-barrel tank of crude oil owned by the Allegheny Steel Company.

An unidentified man told firemen that he had seen a man running from the hillside a short time before the fire started.

Volunteer firemen under State Fire Warden Edward Costello early last night said they had under control a fire which yesterday broke out in Hopewell Township, Beaver County. About 50 acres were swept by the flames, it was said.

More than 500 men fought a fire which raged over a wide area 30 miles east of Kane. Scores of families were ordered from their homes. Clermont, a village of 600 population, was said to be in the path of the flames.

More than 3,000 acres in the vicinity of Clermont and Betula have been swept by fires since Sunday night.

The State Department of Forests and Waters yesterday ordered several planes to the Pittsburgh district, with instructions to fly over the hills and mountains in search of forest fires. They were to report all conflagrations to the state fire warden.

Two hundred volunteer firemen fought four hours late yesterday before they subdued a fire which swept over 100 acres of wood and brushland and 50 acres of hay and grain fields at Warrendale, near Ingomar.

BOMBS BUILT AS GAS TEST

Two scientists at the United States Bureau of Mines, Forbes street, are preparing to set off two bombs, powerful enough to blow up the entire wing of the bureau building, while they stand beside them to watch the results of their experiment.

The purpose of the experiment, the first of its kind ever performed in America, is to determine by an explosion the maximum amount of energy which molecules are able to take up, according to Dr. Gunther Von Elbe, German physicist, who has been doing research work at the University of Virginia, and Dr. Bernard Lewis, of the bureau's staff.

The great Empire State skyscraper in New York.

REACHING HIGH

It's Order of the Day in Everything

A LITTLE while since, when this picture was taken, this building was only a steel skeleton. Soon thousands of human beings will be working in it and ten millions around it will have become accustomed to THE HIGHEST BUILDING ON EARTH.

TO reach ever higher and higher is, fortunately, the tendency of the American nation. Business totals go higher. We have, in the A. T. & T., the five-billion-dollar corporation. We have in this monument the most magnificent achievement of modern architecture.

ALWAYS we reach higher. In a spirit of imitation, the modern criminal says to his victim: "Reach for the sky," by which he means: "Put up your hands."

WE say to young and old, who see this: You also should "reach for the sky." Never be satisfied, never admit that there is nothing higher for you.

Up toward the sky there is more room than anywhere else.

Study every day the classified advertising columns, farther on in this newspaper. Hold fast to what you have, but be always looking and reaching for something higher, something better.

DEPORTATION PARTS COUPLE

When a government deportation party of 23 aliens boarded a train last night at the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Station for New York, to be placed aboard steamships for their native countries, among the deportees was a young foreign woman, taking with her to Czecho-Slovakia her 8-month-old American-born daughter.

The immigration law separated Mrs. Anna Macharovcak, 30, from her husband, George Macharovcak, of Clairton, a steel worker, because she had entered this country unlawfully seven months before her marriage. When ordered deported she decided to take her baby with her.

Records of the immigration service show that Anna Stojak, who later became Mrs. Macharovcak, arrived in New York October 30, 1928, under the name of Anna Paliscak, and went to the home of a relative in Nemacolin, Pa.

Macharovcak met and courted her and they married May 16, 1929. The baby was born August 5, 1930. At about that time immigration authorities cited her for a hearing. It was disclosed she had obtained her passport to America by representing herself to be Anna Paliscak, a native of Barnesboro, Pa.

Foch Lauds Fighting Of Second Division At Chateau Thierry

In yesterday's installment Marshal Foch told of how his preparations for the Allied counter-offensive in July, 1918, were under way when the Germans launched another attack against the Allied line. Foch revealed how he refused to be superseded by the Versailles War Council and how he maintained his status as Supreme Commander. He told of the steps taken to combat the German drive until the plans for the Allied counter-offensive, scheduled for July 18, 1918, could be completed. In today's installment the Marshal describes further these preparations.

By MARSHAL FERDINAND FOCH

Commander-in-Chief of the Allied Armies During the Closing Phases of the World War.

CHAPTER XXV.

July 16, 1918, passed without fresh incident. The German attack, smitten with failure the previous day, did not now succeed in obtaining any better results. On the Champagne front, it degenerated into unconnected and ineffectual local actions.

South of the Marne, the enemy tried in vain to widen his bridge-head. He encountered not only a stubborn defense, but vigorous counter-attacks on the part of the French 6th Army, which stopped him everywhere and even retook certain points of support.

If it be added that "our artillery and air service bombarded the passages over the Marne unceasingly and rendered difficult the arrival of reinforcements, ammunition and supplies," it can be seen how precarious was the enemy's situation at the bottom of the Chateau-Thierry "pocket."

The sole progress he was able to register during the 16th was to the southwest of Rheims, between the Vesle and the Marne, particularly along the latter river; but these advances were so localized that they could have no influence on the situation as a whole, and so costly that they could not be renewed without serious prejudice.

Marshal Foch

After two days of fruitless efforts to improve the already precarious advantages gained on the Marne, it was only natural that the German Supreme Command should hesitate.

What indeed had been the results of this "Friedensturm" which, it had been so loudly proclaimed, was to bring peace by one victorious rush? Nothing but bitterness and deception, forerunners of defeat. The moral state of the whole army could not be otherwise than profoundly affected by this outcome.

On July 17 the Germans had been reduced to impotence; on the 18th the guns of the Allies were in turn to make their thunder heard at the time and place which had been fixed upon.

As already related, attention had been drawn as early as the month of June to the importance which Soissons had for the enemy, since it was here that centered railways absolutely indispensable for the adequate supply of his troops engulfed in the deep

BOARD URGED TO ACT ON PROJECTS

Contractors for New Mifflin And Prospect Buildings Selected by Committee

Recommendations that contracts totaling $605,145 for new school construction, repairs and improvements be awarded were made at a meeting of the property and supplies committee of the Board of Education. The school board probably will act on the recommendation at its meeting tomorrow and a start on actual work on the contracts in the near future is virtually assured.

The committee also recommended taking bids on the general contract and work on the new Mifflin school. Approval was given preliminary plans for an addition to the Westinghouse High School. The committee also considered preliminary drawings for the new William M. Davidson High School to be erected in West Liberty avenue.

MIFFLIN, PROSPECT JOBS

Included in the recommendations of the committee is the awarding of a contract for the electrical work on the new Mifflin school to the W. C. Hemmerle Electric Company, lowest among nine bidders, at $9,365. The general contract for construction of the new Prospect High and Elementary School, Mt. Washington, is to be awarded to the Dick Construction Company, lowest of 12 bidders, at $447,180.

Other contracts recommended on the new Prospect building are: heating and ventilating, Moss and Blakeley Plumbing Company, $66,766; boilers, Titusville Iron Works, $6,385; stokers, Combustion Engineering Corporation, $4,230; temperature regulation, Johnson Service Company, $6,080; unit heaters, Buckeye Blower Company, $8,930 and plumbing, George H. Soffel Company, $34,895.

PAVING CONTRACTS

The Hale Electric Company will receive a contract for electrical work on the Prospect School at $29,600.

Painting, paving and other contracts, including repairs at 18 schools, amounting to $21,314, will be awarded on the basis of the committee's report. In all but one case the contract will go to the bidder. In this case there was a tie for the painting work at the Springfield school. Charles K. Jones and Theodore Glanoutsos and Company each bid $780 and the contract went to Jones.

INSURANCE MEN TO MEET

Pittsburgh life insurance men will meet in the William Penn Hotel tomorrow under the auspices of the Pittsburgh Life Underwriters' Association to study the national crisis in business conditions. Sessions will be held from 10 a. m. to 4:30 p. m., with talks by John W. Yates, general agent of the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Company, in Detroit on "Underwriting a Life Expectancy," and James A. Fulton, president of the Home Insurance Company, of New York, on "The Life Insurance Salesman and Changing Conditions."

Ralph G. Engelsman, general agent of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company, New York, and Vincent B. Coffin, educational director of the Penn Mutual, in Philadelphia, will present their talking motion picture, which develops a sales plan, during the afternoon session. The picture will be followed by a personal demonstration of the same principles to various situations.

Luncheon will be held in the ball room of the William Penn Hotel. David Lawrence, president and editor of the United States Daily, will speak on "Looking Ahead." Others to be present include Robert N. Waddell, vice president of the Pittsburgh Association; Jay M. Holmes, vice president of the Pittsburgh Association; William M. Furey, trustee of the National Association; Lee D. Hemingway, secretary of the National Association; Charles W. Scovel and William M. Duff, vice president of the American College of Life Underwriters, Holgar J. Johnson, president of the Pittsburgh Association, will preside at the luncheon.

Derry Man Jailed By Federal Judge

Robert Barclay, 20, of Derry, Pa., was sentenced to serve 18 months in the Federal Reformatory at Chillicothe, O., by Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker, after revoking a two-year probation granted February 11, when Barclay pleaded guilty of using the mails in a sceme to defraud.

He was subsequently accused of stealing two automobile batteries from a garage in Derry.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

NEW YORK, April 21.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Just flew in from Washington. Say, aviation is getting somewhere. A plane every hour on the hour between Washington and New York. I told you it looked like a dull night in Washington last night. Say, I run into D. A. R. convention, and those old Colonial dames gave me one of the wildest nights I have had in years. I got their minds off their ancestors and they are just as human as anybody. Had a long chat with Borah and we fixed up a few loose ends. Mr. Hoover says Sandino will be caught soon. I would hate to run and have that as my issue. Jimmy Walker met his opponents in the first game today. Score: Walker 10, opponents 0.

Yours, WILL.

BRIDGE AND ROAD BIDS TOTALING $1,500,000 OPENED

WORK AWARDS BY COUNTY DUE NEXT WEEK

McKees Rocks and Boston Spans and Two Highways Included in Projects

County commissioners opened 307 bids yesterday for bridge construction, road extensions, building additions and miscellaneous supplies and equipment with a total estimated cost of approximately $1,500,000.

The bids were turned over to County Controller Robert G. Woodside for tabulation and awards will be made probably next week.

Interest in the projects was illustrated by the large number of bids submitted on some of the items. McKees Rocks Bridge paving attracted 36 companies and Rochester road in Ross Township, 26.

LONE BID ON MACHINE

The Harrison Construction Company submitted a low bid of $272,277 for paving the floor and building retaining walls for the McKees Rocks Bridge and for removing the existing O'Donovan Bridge. Commissioner C. C. McGovern objected to the inclusion of the O'Donovan Bridge removal as not being a county responsibility.

A lone bid of $450 was submitted by the Monroe Calculating Machine Company for a Monroe calculating machine.

Three identical bids of $2,857.50 were submitted by B. K. Elliott, the A. & B. Smith Co. and the Stevenson-Foster Company for 370 rolls of blue print paper. A lone bid of $1,417.50 was submitted by the Photostat Company for 350 rolls of photograph copying paper.

BOSTON BRIDGE BID

The Fort Pitt Bridge Company submitted a low bid of $228,248 for building the superstructure of Boston Bridge No. 6, over the Youghiogheny River. A low bid of $10,545 for safety curb guards on the bridge was submitted by the Pittsburgh Annealing Box Company, and W. C. Hemmerle was low on the electric work with a bid of $4,389.

The F. W. Scott offered to construct Rochester road in Ross Township and West View Borough for $132,246, and the Allegheny Contracting Company was low at $82,862 for the construction of Laketon road, in Wilkinsburg and Penn Township.

A low bid of $172,253 was submitted by J. P. Ramella and Sons Construction Company for the general construction work incident to the administration building, the hangar and the auxiliary building for the County Airport. Frank S. Tillman & Co. offered to widen Washington pike, in Greentree borough, for $74,412.

County Schedules Park Site Hearing

County Commissioners have set next Tuesday for a hearing of members of East Pittsburgh Borough Council on an appeal to have the county acquire borough property for a park.

Attorney Harold M. Irons and N. M. Beck, borough solicitor, told the commissioners yesterday that the approach of George Westinghouse Bridge cut a parcel of borough land in half, destroying its value for anything but a park site.

Car Shop Worker Dies After Injury

Injured while at work in the Pitcairn car shops of the Pennsylvania Railroad, Adolph Hennish, 45, of 20 Wall avenue, Wall, died this morning in the Columbia Hospital. The accident occurred a week ago. The report to the coroner states that death was caused by pneumonia, superinduced by the injuries suffered in the shop.

COUNCIL SEEKS BOND ADVICE

Apparently dissatisfied with the City Law Department's opinion that a $100,000 bond issue, to be used for parking wharf improvements, is outdated, City Council today was taking steps to seek the opinion of a New York legal firm of bond experts.

Thomas M. Benner, assistant city solicitor, pointed out that in previous cases throughout the United States more than 11 years was considered unreasonable when a bond issue has not been sold. The city bond issue was authorized in 1910.

Councilman W. Y. English voted against the motion to seek further advice, and said Council should set a precedent and sell the bonds.

Edward G. Lang, director of the Public Works Department, yesterday was given full power to operate the wharves on the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers for parking. Prior to Council's action, parking was under supervision of the Public Safety Department. Inefficient operation is responsible for the change, Council pointed out.

ARMED BANDITS ROB COLLECTOR

Two armed bandits held up C. O. Hunter, of 177 River road, Munhall, oil company collector, after forcing his automobile to the curb in Ohio River boulevard near Rankin avenue and robbed him of $60 last night. A description of the pair and the license number of the car in which they escaped was given police.

A thief early today hurled a brick through a window in the P. H. Butler chain store in the 2200 block, Spring Garden avenue, and looted the window of the goods on display. The loss was not estimated.

Detectives have been notified by David Nossokoff, of 1010 Abdell street, North Side, that $1,300 in cash was stolen from his home yesterday. The money disappeared from a bureau drawer where it had been hidden.

Custody of Son, 6, Sought by Mother

Alleging the health of her son, Delmar, 6, has suffered by neglect, Mrs. Lida Walters asked Judge Sylvester J. Snee in Common Pleas Court to give her custody of the boy, through a writ of habeas corpus directed to her husband, Claude Walters. Both reside in Tarentum.

Two Movies in 12 Years, so Wife Wins Divorce

Her husband took her to the movies only twice in 12 years, was one of the complaints of Mrs. Ruth A. Bushey, 5701 Stanton avenue, which procured her a divorce in Common Pleas Court from Harry E. Bushey, farmer, of York Springs, Adams County.

She said he was penurious and tried to save every cent. They lived on his farm at York Springs after their marriage in March, 1918, and he objected to their two sons, now aged 10 and 12, going to Sunday School because of the work on the farm, Mrs. Bushey testified. She left him in November, 1929, she said.

COUNTY TO BUY VET CEMETERY

County Commissioners have agreed to buy for $175 an acre, 55 acres in Scott Township, 25 of which will be for burial ground for veterans of United States wars and 30 acres for a memorial park.

The site was offered to the county by Squire A. W. McMillen, of Carnegie, representing, he said, residents of lower Chartiers Valley. Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, favoring the purchase, explained that the county-owned burial grounds for veterans in South Side Cemetery and in McKeesport Cemetery had room for only a few additional graves.

The section of the site to be used as a memorial park contains a number of buildings with historical significance concerning the Whisky Insurrection of 1794, according to Andrew G. Smith, president of the Allegheny County Historical Society, who urged the purchase of the land. Smith asked to have the historical structures marked by suitable tablets.

'FLIVVER' FORCED DOWN!

MRS. HAL BAZLEY . . . FORCED TO LAND IN NIGHT'S BLACKNESS

Mrs. Bazley, wife of Bettis Field's manager, on the "flivver plane" in which she and her pilot-husband, flying home from Detroit's air show, were forced to land in a field near Finleyville.

MISHAP THRILLS WOMAN FLIER

Mrs. Hal Bazley, ife of the manager of Bettis Airport, has a new flying thrill over which to boast to her friends—a forced landing at night.

Flying with her husband from the Detroit air show Monday in the new Curtiss Wright Junior "flivver," they ran out of gas over Finleyville, a few miles from the field. The engine sputtered, coughed and died.

Capt. Bazley, at the controls, set the ship in a glide, finally finding a little clearing in a meadow. He banked sharply, spiraling the little ship to a perfect landing and left the plane in the field, returning for it yesterday with gas, and flying it to Bettis Airport alone.

PLAN TRACTION FEES PARLEY

Asserting that it must stand by its agreement of 1921 with the Pittsburgh Railways Company, City Council today was making plans to discuss with all interested parties some arrangement to pay the company's street paving and license assessments in the future.

President John S. Herron was instructed to call representatives of the company, the Traction Conference Board, and the Allied Boards of Trade for a conference following presentation of an opinion from the city law department yesterday, explaining the terms of the agreement when the railways company was reorganized in 1921.

Thomas Fitzgerald, vice president of the company, had written council explaining the company was unable to meet its last quarterly assessment of more than $75,000 for 1930 because of poor business conditions. Present indications, he pointed out, were that it would be several months before any money could be paid.

Believe Injured Man Victim of Robber

Believed to have been the victim of a highwayman, John Meyer, 67, of 1128 Spring Garden avenue, North Side, was found unconscious on the pavement near his home. A motorist removed him to the Allegheny General Hospital, where he was treated for a deep laceration on the head. Meyer was unable to tell police how he had been injured.

MAN CONVICTED BY SPLIT JURY

When Chief of Police C. M. Lowell, of Forest Hills borough, was found guilty of extortion by a jury in Criminal Court late yesterday, his attorney, Louis Little, demanded that the jury be polled. All the jurors answered that they had voted "guilty" excepting No. 6 juror, Mrs. Kate Miller, 6340 Marchland street, who answered "not guilty."

Visiting Judge James A. Chambers, of Lawrence County, before whom the case was tried, questioned the juror, who, in a confused manner, said they had taked over the case and agreed upon the verdict as rendered. The judge then directed that the verdict be recorded as guilty. Attorney Little filed exceptions and will make a motion for a new trial.

Lowell was charged by Matt Patchenko, of Braddock, with extortion of $150 December 16, 1928, saying Chief Lowell had come to him in his cell and told him he would need to pay that amount to get out. Unable to raise the amount, he said he was released under $500 bail, but asserted that he gave the chief $150 the next day and that the bail bond was destroyed.

Ingrown Nail Turns Right Out!

Pain Stops Instantly!

"Outgro" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevice of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.

CITIZENS JOIN IN FIGHT ON OFFICIALS

Teachers' Pay Cut, Borough Broke, Group Charges, Accusing Bryan Control

An organization to represent the taxpayers in an inquiry into the financial status of the borough was formed in McKees Rocks at a meeting of citizens who are protesting against the recent increase in taxation.

Members of the committee declare that the borough is bankrupt, that a further increase in taxation is likely and there has been drastic reductions in the salaries of School Board employes.

FUNDS DECLARED GONE

H. D. Hewlett was elected chairman of a citizens committee at a meeting held in his home at 126 Amelia street. He said that there is little or no money in the borough sinking fund for repayment of about $750,000 in borough bonds and not a cent in the sinking fund to repay $800,000 in School Board bonds. Hewlett declared that George Gast, borough secretary, has evaded the question concerning the bofough's financial standing.

Members of the committee also stated that borough officials have raised the assessment valuation of properties more than 10 per cent. It was learned that at a special meeting of the School Board last Wednesday the pay of teachers and other employes had been cut. It also is rumored that there are not sufficient funds to meet the school payroll.

ACCUSES BRYAN

Harry Priddy, a member of the committee, declared that inefficiency of the borough administration under the control of Miles Bryan, political leader, was the cause for the tax raise. He urged political action to wrest control from the Bryan group.

The committee elected to represent the taxpayers is composed of George J. Leck, secretary; Priddy, Hewlett, Attorney D. J. Buckley, Frank F. Wilde, Rudolph Diecek, John Bohr, John Driscoll, Patrick Mulkeen, Eugene Gibson, John P. Tripoli, Alfred Williams, C. E. Flanigan, J. S. Burkhard, Lloyd R. Hewlett, Andrew Vavrek, George Schindehutte and O. P. Rennekamp.

Police Investigate $2,000 Braddock Fire

HUNGER 'MARCH' DECLARED TRIUMPH

Pittsburgh Group Returns From Capital in Trucks; Pinchot Rebukes Speaker

Refused their wishes, yet regarding their "march" upon Harrisburg as a "triumph," Pittsburgh's "Hunger Marchers" "marched" back to the city today—in trucks.

Their pleas for jobless relief and legislation for unemployment insurance were given respectful attention by Gov. Pinchot and the State Legislature, Pat Cush, chairman of the press committee of the marchers, said.

From Harrisburg the Associated Press reports a rebuff Gov. Pinchot bestowed upon a spokesman for the marchers, William Simons, of Philadelphia. When Simons charged the Governor with "making false promises" during his campaign, Pinchot strode across the room, confronted the slight, stock Simons and said:

● STANDARD RATING SCALE for Electric Refrigeration

Here is the way to get those extra conveniences and extra refinements in electric refrigeration that gladden your heart more and more as the years go by.

Read the Standard Rating Scale, and you'll understand why it is an assurance of lasting satisfaction. Apply the Scale to Kelvinator, and in just five minutes you will appreciate the fact that here is a refrigeration that gives enduring contentment as well as lasting dependability. Come in and prove it to yourself.

- Is the refrigerator manufactured by a reliable company with proper experience in the electric refrigeration field?
- Has it plenty of food and shelf space?
- Is the cabinet itself well designed, sturdily built and properly insulated?
- Is there provision for the freezing of an adequate supply of ice cubes? (Quantity of ice rather than number of cubes, which may be of large or small size, should be taken into consideration).
- Will the refrigerator constantly maintain a proper temperature for the preservation of foods?
- Can the freezing of ice cubes and desserts be speeded up when the need arises?
- Can this extra freezing speed for ice cubes be had without affecting the temperature on the food shelves? (Too low a temperature on the shelves will, of course injure food).
- Is there a place to keep ice cream, meat, fish, game, "quick frosted" foods or extra ice cubes indefinitely at a below freezing temperature?
- Are these various temperatures (a. extra fast freezing; b. fast freezing; c. below freezing for storage; and d. normal food preservation temperature) automatically maintained without any attention from the owner?
- Does the refrigerating unit operate often or infrequently? (The fewer "stops" and "starts" the longer the unit will last and the less it costs to run).
- How long will the cooling unit continue to cool the refrigerator even though the current is shut off? (Refrigeration should continue for 10 or 12 hours).
- Can the back parts of all shelves, even the lowest, be reached without kneeling or sitting down?
- Has provision been made for keeping vegetables fresh and crisp?
- Can the refrigerator top be used to "set things down for a moment" while the contents of the cabinet are being re-arranged?
- Will the refrigerator add to the attractiveness of the kitchen?
- Has the experience of users over a long period of years proved the refrigerator long-lived and dependable?

DAVIS ASSAILS WAGE CUTS

READING, Pa., April 22.—(AP.)—A warning against wage reductions lest the entire economic structure collapse, was sounded by Senator Davis, of Pennsylvania.

Davis told the annual meeting of the International Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, that wage scales have been upheld "generally" during the present depression, and added:

"Deplorably, however, a small minority of employers have pruned wages, despite the fact that President Hoover and many of the noted economists of the world have warned against this practice.

"Every business leader and industrialist should know that the wage earner is really the driving wheels of prosperity, upholding the entire economic locomotive, and that if these wheels are pared too much they might be unable to uphold the weight of the economic burden and the entire locomotive might collapse."

The Pittsburgh Clef Choir gave its annual concert in Carnegie Music Hall last night. This choir is our Negro choir which up until now has sung unaccompanied and has kept within the sphere of shorter songs and its spirituals.

J. Fred Lissfelt

The director, Joseph Rodgers Walker, has a greater ambition, however, and attempted a larger choral work last night, using Coleridge Taylor's "Hiawatha's Wedding Feast" after the text of Longfellow, the orchestra of Allegheny Night High School playing accompaniments.

I should not hesitate to advise Director Walker to make most of his racial music, for although there is wonderful training to be had for his singers in doing cantatas, this chorus should be spreading the gospel and the beauties of Negro music.

Irwin C. Swann sang the tenor solo in the Taylor music, and Mrs. Meta Waniza Elam sang a group of very effective spirituals. Helen Frances Bullitt played Mrs. Elam's accompaniments.

Posture Class Organized By Club

A Mensendieck class in posture has been organized by the Woman's City Club and will be under the direction of Miss Harriet Nyemann and Miss Lise Nordeau, graduate of the Mensendieck School. The two young women, who have a school of their own in Copenhagen, Denmark, were guests of honor at luncheon in the club yesterday and later gave a demonstration of the remarkable corrective and preventive work which they teach.

Miss Nyemann told how Dr. Bess Mensendieck had evolved her system of muscle control and cooperation through her studies as a sculptress and as a physician. With Miss Nordeau demonstrating, the audience was shown how to make the daily muscle movements, such as sitting, standing, stooping and walking things of beauty and benefit.

How to make the feet carry the body's weight as against the old wrong method of walking with the toes out; knee placement; the dangers of relaxed abdominal muscles and the consequent sway back and avoirdupois; chest and shoulder exercises were all included in the demonstrations, and wrong postures were contrasted with the correct methods, in a most illuminating way.

DELIGHTFUL BLOUSES HELP COMPLETE PERFECT COSTUME

—Sketched in Paris—

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, April 22.—Blouses have reached a new high this season, carried along with the success of the suit. No longer is it any blouse, but each suit demanding a certain type of blouse to complete the picture. As all good things are three, so we have the skirt, jacket and blouse carefully considered and created into one perfect costume. One thing must be noted. Despite the importance of the blouse and the multiplicity of designs available, the dressy, fussy type of blouse is most distinctly out. So, too, is the uncompromisingly severe shirt-waist, so beloved of other generations. Our tailored blouses boast pleasantly softening details and yet keep their essential simplicity, while our more dressy blouses rely on the material and clever touches to create the desired effect. This type of blouse is generally worn over the hips while the tailored blouse allows itself to be tucked away inside the skirt. The gilet blouse is liked, especially when the weather becomes a little warmer. All sorts of fabrics are used ranging from satin to linen and some of the nicest blouses are decorated with fine handwork.

* * *

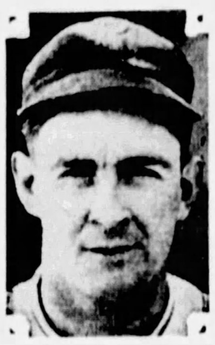
CITY'S BASEBALL CLASS DEMONSTRATED

ALTHOUGH THE OPENING contest scheduled at Forbes Field this afternoon was called off on account of rain, it was evident hours before the decision was reached by Pirate officials that the city would live up to its reputation as one of the best baseball towns in the country. The postponement means that eager Pirate fans will have to wait until tomorrow to lend their support to their home favorites in their inaugural with the Chicago Cubs. Last season brought a disappointing finish, when the Pirates landed in the second division for the first time since 1917, and this year the club got off to a lame start by losing four of its first seven games on the road, but it was clear that those developments had not affected the loyalty or the enthusiasm of the home fans as await their chance to pour into Forbes Field and hand all the encouragement possible to Larry French and his supporting cast in the delayed opener.



Larry French

It's the right spirit at the right time. The real measure of a ball town is the way it stands up for its club when things have been breaking none too well, and in that respect Pittsburgh district fans will demonstrate again tomorrow in the royal welcome given to the Bucs that they are second to none in the land.

EXPERIENCE HAS TAUGHT local followers of the diamond sport that the possibilities of a club cannot be fairly estimated from the outcome of the first few games, and they realize besides that both the fifth-place finish of 1930 and the rather unsuccessful start of 1931 were due largely to injuries and illness.

In other words, the fans know that the Rovers have not yet had a fair chance to show their stuff, and they believe that the club is capable of better things than it has yet produced. Today's welcome to the Ensmen reflects that feeling. It's the proper view of the situation and an attitude that cannot fail to help the club. The Bucs are still in a crippled state and may require some further time to get going properly, but sooner or later they are likely to prove that the fans' early confidence in them was not misplaced.

LARRY FRENCH, Pirate southpaw, didn't have an overly encouraging record behind him as he made ready to face the Cubs in the Forbes Field lid-lifter. He had lost four games in a row to the Bruins and had beaten them only twice in seven starts.

In 1929, his first year in the National League, French broke even in two games against Chicago. Last year he won his first tilt with the Cubs but lost the next three, and last week he made his 1931 start by dropping another decision to them.

A LEFT-HANDER has got to be in top form to stop the Cubs' array of right-hand hitters, but circumstances this spring have forced Manager Ens to take more chances with southpaws than he would have taken ordinarily. Conditions are somewhat better for the present series than they were last week, as an additional right-hander is now available in Remy Kremer. Things won't be normal in the slab department for some time, however. Ervin Brame is still confined to his bed and though Steve Swetonic says he expects to start throwing next week it will be many more weeks before he is able to pitch.

K. M. Landis

THE DECISION IN which Judge Walter Lindley, of the Federal Court, dismisses the suit of the Milwaukee club, owned by the St. Louis Browns, in the case of Outfielder Fred Bennett, and upholds the power of Commissioner K. M. Landis, is one of great importance to organized ball.

The continued success of the game in its organized state depends upon its being conducted under a system that will hold public confidence, and that will force all clubs and individuals to operate along a straight line. Landis may have a weakness for the limelight, and like any other human he may make mistakes, but the public has confidence in his honesty, and any cutting down of his power would have lessened confidence in organized ball, with harmful results.

FANDOM WILL AWAIT with interest the reaction of Commissioner Landis and major league interests in general to the unsuccessful attempt of a club controlled by the St. Louis Americans to have his authority reduced, inasmuch as the Commissioner may charge a breach of agreement.

Like all the other big league magnates the Brown owners signed the following when the major league agreement was adopted on January 1, 1921: "The major leagues and their constituent clubs severally agree to be bound by the decisions of the commissioner, and the discipline imposed by him under the provisions of this agreement, and severally waive such right of recourse to the courts as would otherwise have existed in their favor."

WHILE THE VAUNTED A's and Robins have started so woefully as to be able to show only three victories by their combined efforts against 11 defeats up to today, Bill McKechnie's Boston Braves continue to furnish the big spring surprise from the opposite angle. Of their first eight games the Braves won six, more victories than were scored in the same period by any other club in either league. It was said the Braves' pitchers would not measure up, but they allowed the hard-hitting Giants only one run in the last two games, and only five in the last three games. Ed Brandt has pitched two five-hit engagements. McKechnie surely has his club playing beyond expectations.

THE IMPRESSION APPEARS to exist in some quarters that the return of Jesse Harper to Notre Dame as athletic director means he is to be at the head of the football coaching system. On the contrary, Harper is to handle only the administrative or business end, though the coaches naturally may benefit from his long experience and store of grid knowledge.

The tip comes that even without Knute Rockne, Notre Dame is likely to have another brilliantly successful football season next fall. After a couple of big cuts the spring squad still numbers 218, and the material on the whole is said to be equal to any crop the university ever had. Hunk Anderson and Jack Chevigny may be depended on to turn out a machine of uncommon power.

Battling Levinsky

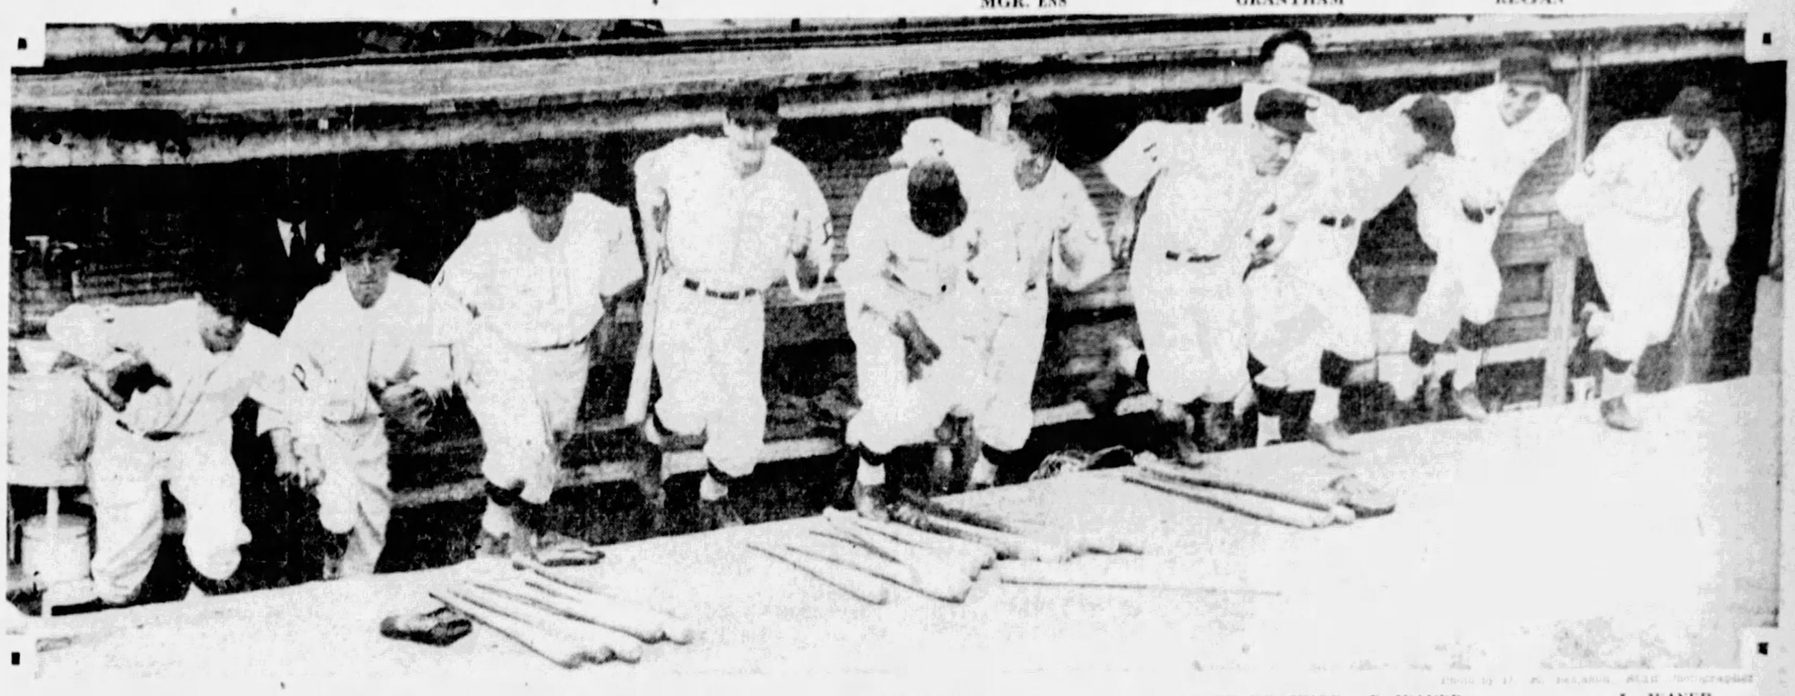
JIM THORPE, most famous member of the Sac and Fox tribe of Indians, former football star and once the world's greatest all-around athlete, is about to register a protest before the law-making bodies of California, where he now makes his home as a $4-a-day laborer.

There is a bill before the California Legislature to segregate Indian and Mexican children from the white in the public school system. Thorpe believes this is unfair and is preparing to file objections. In protesting he calls attention to the number of Indian and Mexican athletes developed in that locality.

WRESTLING USED TO be considered a sport in itself, one in which you had to be a thoroughly-schooled specialist to get employment, but it has fallen to such a level that all you have to possess nowadays is a well-known name to put on the bills. In the wake of Joe Savoldi, Hank Bruder, Leonard Macaluso and other college football players who saw a chance to make some money in wrestling even though they had no knowledge of the game, George Godfrey, Negro heavyweight boxer, took a flier in the mat racket, and now he has been followed by Battling Levinsky, a worn-out fistic veteran who will be 40 years old in June. Levinsky, of course, is without wrestling experience, but evidently such experience is no longer necessary. Wrestling now appears to be the only sport in the world in which you don't have to know anything about the game itself to be financially successful.

BUCS' OPENER POSTPONED

MGR. ENS — GRANTHAM — REGAN



FRENCH — PHILLIPS — THEVENOW — SUHR — COMOROSKY — CAPT. TRAYNOR — P. WANER — L. WANER

Each day as the time arrives for the Pirates to take the field against the common enemy, Manager Jewel Ens leads forth his men from the dugout with the battle cry, "Let's go, Bucs!" Here's how they'll dash forth to do battle against the Cubs in the opening game of the home season at Forbes Field tomorrow. The batting order is pictured reading from right to left. Regan will remain at second base in place of the injured Grantham, while Hemsley probably will start behind the bat instead of Phillips. Larry French is scheduled to pitch.

FIRST ANNUAL DUCKPIN EVENT BIG SUCCESS

Bowlers who take to the Haus Alleys, North Side, today in the final day's rolling of the first annual duckpin tournament of the Greater Pittsburgh Bowling Alley Owners' Association and hope to crash into the list of prize winners will have to beat 538 in the singles; 1001 in the doubles, and 2298 in the five-men event. These scores are low for the first 25, with 700, 1103 and 2697, respectively, high.

The tournament, which got under way a week ago Monday, comes to a close tonight with a full program. A brace of bowlers will take to the alleys at 5:30 this evening in the singles and the last teams will start rolling at 11:30.

TOURNEY SUCCESS

The tourney, the first to be sponsored by the newly formed association, has been a huge success. A world record has been set. Ed Renkey's astounding 700 score in the singles and a record entry list has competed for the 81 prizes.

Renkey is the present leader in the singles, and bids fair to hold his high position. In the doubles, the Hubac-Herman duo holds the lead by the very narrow margin of a single pin, with a score of 1103. In second place comes Vandershice and Douglass with 1102.

BARRONES AHEAD

The Barrones, of Mt. Washington, appear to have the five-men first prize safely stowed away, their score of 2697 being 221 pins better than the 2476 of the Miers team of Donora.

Messner, who failed to crash the first 25 in the singles, has a high single game mark of 264. Hubac and Herman, with 435, lead in the doubles. Renkey is out in front

RAIN AND SNOW PUT DAMPER ON INAUGURAL

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Rain, cold and snow flurries today caused a postponement of the opening game of the baseball season in Pittsburgh between the Pirates and Cubs at Forbes Field.

The contest was called off shortly before noon, before the temperature had dropped sufficiently to change the rain into snow. The snow followed.

An attempt will be made to stage the opener tomorrow. Last year, the Pirates braved the elements on opening day and had to give up play after several innings of play when a blinding snowstorm blanketed the scene.

Tickets sold for today will be honored at tomorrow's game without exchange. Tickets sold for tomorrow, however, will have to be exchanged, club officials announced today.

FEW TICKET EXCHANGES

This ticket plan was adopted because thousands of tickets have been sold for the lid-lifter, whereas only a few have been sold for the second game, and both the fans and the Corsair chiefs wish to avoid wholesale exchanges.

When the weather man predicted showers throughout the day, club officials deemed an early postponement advisable so that hundreds of out-of-town fans in possession of opening game tickets might be saved a needless trip to the city. All local radio stations co-operated in telling the out-of-towners of the postponement.

Despite a run of injuries which has hampered the club at the outset of the race, the Pirates are eager to go to the mat with their intense rivals from Chicago. Manager Ens has two slab aces in the hospital list in the sickness of Ervin Brame and Steve Swetonic, while George Grantham is suffering with a ruptured blood vessel in his left leg, but the boss of the Pirate brigade is taking his tough luck in his characteristic manner.

BUCS EAGER FOR FRAY

Ens contends that you have a chance to win just so long as you have nine players who will hustle and the Bucs have caught the spirit of their manager. They have won three of their seven battles and are ready to take on all comers.

Larry French, the young lefthander who bowed to the Cubs one week ago Tuesday as the Pirates and Bruins staged the opener in Chicago, will be on Fogarty Knoll tomorrow afternoon. French is bothered with a sore throwing arm, but sore arm or otherwise, he says he will be "out there" tomorrow. The whole team likes the spirit of the Coast League lefthander, who does not wince as he ties into a club that sports a distinctive righthand attack. Glenn Spencer is the logical second choice.

Skipper Ens would prefer to use Ervin Brame or Remy Kremer against the Bruins, but neither is available for the opener. The tall Kentuckian is a sick boy in his room in Webster Hall, while Kremer has not had sufficient rest since he threw back the Reds in Cincinnati. Nevertheless, French worked cleverly against the Cubs in the Chicago opener, the superlative pitching of Charley Root standing in the way of a triumph for the lefthander.

GRANTHAM MAY PLAY

Ens stated today there was a chance that George Grantham would be able to go to his keystone post tomorrow afternoon, but Bill Regan, too, is all set for the job. Grantham has shown some improvement in the past couple of days, the manager would prefer

BRAVES GAIN RANK OF PENNANT CONTENDERS

Miller Hopes to Pilot Reliance Life Team to Titles in Two Leagues

THREE-WAY TIE FOR LEAD IN AMERICAN

Associated Press

Bill McKechnie, a successful pilot of baseball clubs for a good many years, seems to be meeting with success in his efforts to build up the Boston Braves even sooner than he expected. McKechnie took over the Boston management last year under a four-year contract which, he said, would give him just enough time to change a losing club into one which stood a good chance of winning. The first eight games this season already have put the Braves into the light of a pennant contender.

Boston now is second in the National League with six victories to their credit and appear to have everything that is needed to go right on winning. In the pitching line, Ed Brandt pitched and won his second full game yesterday, allowing the New York Giants only five hits for a 5-to-1 triumph. Socks Seibold also has won two games and old Tom Zachary one.

ROBINS LOSE AGAIN

Rated as one of the leaders in the pre-season dope, the Brooklyn Robins took their sixth defeat in seven games yesterday. Jim Elliott, former Brooklyn pitcher, hurled the Phillies to a 7-to-3 victory over his former teammates, keeping nine hits well scattered. Elliott was the first Philly pitcher to go the route this year. Three hurlers toiled for Brooklyn.

In the American League, the Washington Senators and New York Yankees staged 12-run uprisings to make the days showing rather one-sided. Washington slammed the Boston Red Sox around for 16 hits and scored 10 runs in the first four innings to win, 12-3.

Fred Marberry made his first start of the season and gave the Sox only seven hits. It took the Yanks only two innings to get the runs off a trio of Philadelphia hurlers and they downed the world's champions, 12-1.

INDIANS BEAT TIGERS

Cleveland had a real battle on its hands before it could join the three-way tie for the American League lead by beating out the Detroit Tigers, 5 to 4. With the game apparently won for Cleveland, Jonathan Stone hit his fourth homer of the season for Detroit and brought in three tallies of a four-run rally that tied the score. The Indians came back in their half of the inning to get the winning run.

No. 11—MANAGING A TEAM

By Connie Mack

WORLD CHAMPION MANAGER.

During the 1930 world series a lot of stories were written about the score card I hold in my hand during a game. Folks seemed to think it was some sort of black magic or something of the sort. Or maybe a luck piece. It's neither. But, after years at this ball game, I've found a score card is perfect for signaling players in the field. It's easy to see—much easier than my hand, for instance.

And running a baseball club from the bench is a real job. Up in the stands folks never see the managers, and I guess they wonder sometimes just what we do to earn our salaries. Naturally, we can't step up there and drive out basehits for our men, and we can't throw a fast ball past opposing hitters.

The manager of a baseball club is like the general on a battlefield. He observes, directs and does the planning on attack and defense. And the best thing a manager can have is a keen pair of eyes for during a game he has to have an eye on every player on the field and see where he is and what he is doing. And he has to watch the hitter and the base-runner, too, for the moment he loses track of a single man that's when the old ball game gets away from him.

Most successful managers are older men—and that's understandable. It takes years to learn the game and the players, the hitters and the pitchers. When I wave my scorecard frantically at an outfielder, I'm doing something more than fanning myself. I'm moving that outfielder over to a spot where ordinarily that hitter will drive the ball on a certain pitch. When I take out a pitcher in a tight spot and put in another, it's because of some definite thing. You can't pick your pitchers out of a hat. You have to know them, know their stuff, and, more important than that, know the hitters they are going to face. And it isn't always the best pitcher who gets the call.

Running a game is like playing a game of chess. You have to meet the other manager move for move, play for play. You have to outguess him or be outguessed. You have to be able to size up a situation immediately and meet it promptly. And you have to stand or fall on your own judgment. You can second guess in the newspapers or in the stands—but you can't second guess out there on the ball field.

It doesn't take any particular type to be a great manager. Miller Huggins and John McGraw were two of the greatest I ever knew, and they were as different as day and night. What it does take is knowledge of the game, infinite patience and the ability to understand and handle men.

to have him in action against the Bears as George's bat is a vital force. It was his homer that gave the Buccos the only victory recorded by the Pirates in the four games with the Cubs.

Pitcher Steve Swetonic rejoined his mates yesterday at Forbes Field, but the Native Son is a long distance away from pitching form. Steve's right arm is still very annoying. He said he would start to work out next week if his arm would permit of it.

DUGAS IN HOSPITAL

Gus Dugas, young Pirate outfielder, who was injured in a collision with Infielder Ben Sankey during yesterday's workout, suffered a fractured jaw, it was disclosed today, and has been taken to St. John's Hospital. The accident occurred as the two players were chasing a fly ball. Sankey, although considerably shaken, was uninjured.

PITT, W. VA., GENEVA PREP FOR RELAYS

By JESS CARVER.

The opening of baseball season, which means so much to the bleacher fan, the lowly peanut and the cold-by-the-time-you-get-it hot dog, is just another day to track and field athletes. It is the unusual privilege of a track or field addict to remain perfectly oblivious to other things in life and still be ranked in the upper strata of society, to say nothing of humanity.

The three district collegiate institutions which are to be represented in the annual University of Pennsylvania relay carnival at Franklin Field, Philadelphia, Friday and Saturday, will put in today staging final workouts prior to departing for the East tomorrow. Pitt will send a sprint and mile relay team, and Capt. Everett Utterback; West Virginia has Russ Calloway, hurdle ace, Gordy Fraser, sprinter, and Charley Hill, weight star, available, and what is more to the point, entered, and Geneva will send a relay squad and its crack high jumper, Spencer. These athletes all will depart tomorrow.

LOCALS MAY LOSE

This year's representation from the tri-state area is not as impressive as it has been in the past, but there remains the chance that the local boys will do themselves more or less proud. Utterback is sure to place in, if not win, the broad jump. The same goes for Spencer in the high jump and for Hill in the shot and discus. Pitt's mile relay team ought to wind up in the money, with Harris, Vitulla, Utterback and Monheim running.

Fraser is a pretty nifty dash man and Calloway gets over the hurdles with a minimum of effort. If he can develop a maximum of speed, he ought to finish in the money.

The Tipoff

St. Francis College's baseball team swaps baseballs and probably errors with Penn State at State College this afternoon in State's second home game of the season. The Lions won their opener last Sat'day.

While other schools are looking forward to the Penn Relays, Coach Gus Halferty, Carnegie Techers are scurrying about the Tartan Bowl preparing for the dual meet Saturday with Western Reserve. The Skibos were vastly encouraged over the triumph scored over the P. A. A. squad last week, and naturally would like to make it two in a row by taking Reserve.

Eddie Gutowski, of Ambridge High, who starred as a footballer and a basketball performer, is heaving the discus for the Bridgeworkers with fair skill. Big Eddie flipped the platter better than 99 feet in a triangular meet Monday. Ninety-nine feet isn't so far, but get a load of the rest of my story.

Last summer, Gutowski, who has a secret ambition to become an all-round star, practiced developing form by working out daily in the park near his home. Eddie didn't have a discus to practice with, but he got himself a fat rock, about five pounds in weight, and worked very diligently to perfect a spin and lift.

Capt. Ray Barger of the Tartan track squad, suffered a muscle injury last week while vaulting in the meet with the P. A. A. He missed clearing 12 footsies by a scant half inch. While on the rubbing table, being administered to by Trainer Bert Munhall, the great Bert delivered himself of the following crack.

"No wonder you got yourself all jammed up. You were landing out there today like a frog."

Johnny Kadlic, Jimmy Bell, Charley Schmitt, Bob Scallan, Eddie Eberts and Johnny Betridge will represent Kiski in the Penn Relays this week. Four of the six will compose a mile relay team, which will compete in the prep school event, and another combination in the medley race. Kadlic has done the 440 in 50 flat, which is fast enough to catch the 8:15 every morning.

Not to be outdone, Shady Side also has relays teams entered at the Phillyclassic. Capt. Palmer, the Academy athletic director, will lead a squad of six men out of town tomorrow night, including Miller, Howat, Stevenson, Vance, Berd and Cydate.

BOXER INJURED

ELIZABETH, N. J., April 22.—(AP.)—Al Garafola, 19, professional boxer of Newark, suffered a fractured skull in a four-round bout with Nicholas Schafitella here last night. Garafola was knocked down with a blow to the chin early in the first round. His head struck the floor heavily.

ODDS SLASHED ON EQUIPOISE FOR DERBY

NEW YORK, April 22.—(AP.)—It is nearly a month until the bugle calls the country's best 3-year-olds to the post for the fifty-seventh running of the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs, but the Whitney clan apparently has strengthened its already dominant position in the $50,000 classic.

In Equipoise, C. V. Whitney has the future book favorite at the almost prohibitive odds of 3 to 1. Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree stable holds a strong hand in Twenty Grand, the second choice, and Surfboard, a mediocre juvenile which has developed into a flashy 3-year-old.

Twenty Grand is being held at 6 to 1, while the odds on Surfboard dropped sharply from 60 to 1 to 20 to 1 following upon his sensational victory at Jamaica on Monday.

Equipoise has ruled as the public choice ever since the 130 eligibles were named in February, but his performance at Havre de Grace on the opening day caused a sudden slash of his odds in the eastern books. He is being held at even shorter odds in the Preakness books.

Twenty Grand is being brought along slowly by Trainer James Rowe and probably will not match with Equipoise until the running of the Preakness on May 9, a week before the renewal of the Derby.

Best story so far of the baseball season that gets under way locally at Forbes Field tomorrow is the one about the absent-minded reporter who was dictating a game in detail to a telegrapher at the Phillies' park . . . The very large Shanty Hogan, of the Giants, was the first man up in the second inning . . . "Hogan walked," ran the dictation, "filling the bases," . . . Helene Madison, the schoolgirl queen of the mermaids, is said to hate New York, literature and lessons and to like jewelry and travel and painting, and she hopes later to go in for sketching a la Helen Wills Moody . . . They say that when she was breaking all of those records in Florida a year ago, Helene put in her time swinging dumbbells to keep fit while her sister swimmers were dancing beneath the soft moonlight.

The fact that the Penn Relays and Drake Relays both are scheduled next Saturday will divide the field of outstanding athletes between the two competitions . . . Eddie Tolan, Negro sprint star, of Michigan, is the leading performer in the Drake event. . . . He will be called upon to oppose Haas, of Minnesota; Glass, of Oklahoma Aggies; Sickle, of Kansas; McCormick, of Notre Dame, and O'Neill, of Detroit University, in the 100-yard dash, and they make up a tough field. . . . In Columbus, O., they are planning to run a boxing show to raise the wherewithal to wipe out a $1,900 indebtedness incurred in the staging of the recent benefit show for a service organization, in the main bout of which Bushy Graham knocked out Johnny Farr. . . . STAR SANDLOT NINE PRIMED FOR RACES

By TOM BIRKS

"All set to go for another championship."

That is how Manager George Miller, of Reliance Life, quoted the chances of the Insurance aggregation last evening.

There is every reason to feel that Miller, one of the smartest managers on the sandlots, knows just what he is talking about. This season the players are filled with the idea to bring home another couple of championships for that fine sportsman, H. G. Scott, vice president of Reliance Life.

Miller is taking on a real job this year, competing as a member of the West Penn and Commercial and Industrial loops. Last evening the Reliance boss announced that the West Penn League games would be played at Homewood playgrounds on Thursday evenings and the Commercial and Industrial loop battles at Langley High School Field on Tuesdays.

CHAMPIONS INTACT

The champions will be back practically intact. Some of the positions are going to find keen competition before they are cinched.

Miller has a newcomer, Alex Smith, to compete with Newell for the third base job. Quider probably will have the shortfield all to himself and Murphy will be out again to cop the keystone sack job. This combination is smart and very fast, and is bound to give the opposition plenty of trouble.

The pitching staff finds Gormley, Hurley, Spencer and Twyman ready to go. Twyman plays the outfield, but also can take his turn on the mound. This quartet compares favorably with any in the district.

SPARROW TO CATCH

Sparrow, the McKees Rocks chatterbox, will be the first-string catcher, with Rausch ready to don the mask as a relief man. Bennett, Seibel and Soapy Heyl compose a classy bunch of outfielders.

There is every reason to feel that Miller again will be a prominent manager in sandlot doings.

Peabody High School's baseball entry in the City League slipped into the running for the Section I title yesterday, its way greased by a no-run, no-hit triumph over Connelley. Behind the sterling pitching of Martin, the East End aggregation pounded out an 8-to-0 victory in the feature scholastic tilt of the day.

Martin held the Connelley hitters in complete subjection in the seven-inning game, permitting only three of them to reach first base, walks accounting for these slips.

Oliver High tightened its grasp on first place in Section II by defeating Carrick in a close contest, 5 to 3. A four-run attack in the fourth inning brought Oliver the victory.

SCHENLEY VICTOR

Schenley gained a mathematical tie for first place in Section I with Westinghouse by defeating Allderdice, 5 to 2. Pitcher Stratton fanned 13 Allderdice opponents. Langley defeated South Hills in Section II, 9 to 4, and Allegheny won over Vocational, 7 to 2.

In the W. P. I. A. L., in Section I, McKees Rocks won over Carnegie, 9 to 3, and in Section IV, Wilkinsburg pounded out a 9-2 win over Edgewood. Diltz's hitting played an important part in the triumph of the Carrollmen, the leadoff man getting three safe blows, including a double and a home run.

In non-league frays, Westinghouse, of the City League, defeated Scott High, last year's W. P. I. A. L. champs, 5 to 0; Kiski walloped Shady Side, 10 to 4, and Mt. Lebanon nosed out Rankin, 7 to 6.

SIX HOMERS STRUCK

All in all there were six home runs clouted by school boy hitters yesterday. Glass, of Peabody; Cicero, of Schenley; Johnson, of Langley; O'Connor, of Mt. Lebanon; Deal and Diltz, of Wilkinsburg, clouting the four-sackers.

In the junior division of the City League, Latimer lost out to Herron Hill, 6 to 4, the losers escaping a shutout by scoring four runs in the last inning.

Pirate Catcher Is Father Again

Eddie Phillips, new Pirate catcher and former football star at Boston College, today was the happiest member of the Pittsburgh squad. Eddie's extreme joy grew out of a message he received yesterday from his home in Worcester, Mass., announcing the arrival of a baby boy. The news also informed the Pirate receiver the mother and child were doing nicely.

Phillips' happy family circle thus was increased to five. Besides the new baby there are Eddie, Jr., aged 5, and Charles, aged 3.

JUDGE LANDIS SCORES BIG VICTORY

CHICAGO, April 22.—(AP.)—The first legal battle to break Kenesaw Mountain Landis' dictatorship over organized baseball has failed.

In the same Federal Court where the Commissioner of Baseball rose to fame as a "hard boiled" judge, he won a victory yesterday when Federal Judge Walter Lindley, of Danville, Ill., ruled he had acted within his rights in ruling Outfielder Fred Bennett a free agent and dismissed for want of equity a suit for injunction filed by the Milwaukee club of the American Association to restrain his power in the case.

The legal fight, the first attack on Commissioner Landis' authority over baseball, arose last year when Landis demanded that the St. Louis club of the American League, part owner of the Milwaukee club to which it had sent Bennett on option, either waive Bennett to the other 15 clubs of the major leagues or release or sell him outright to any club not connected with the St. Louis club. Milwaukee included. Phil Ball, owner of the St. Louis club and principal stockholder in the St. Louis baseball farm system, refused, stuck by the club's optional release of Bennett to Milwaukee and Landis then declared Bennett a free agent to contract with any team he saw fit.

During the judge's deliberation, Bennett remained out of baseball. Armed with the decision, however, he can now contract with any team desiring his services.

PLAYER'S CLAIM DENIED

CHICAGO, April 22.—(AP.)—A baseball league isn't always required to absorb the liabilities of one of its financially disabled clubs, Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis ruled today.

The Commissioner turned down a plea by Richard Rudolph, former manager of the Waterbury Club, of the Eastern League, who sought to make the league instead of James V. Gilpin, former owner of the club, pay him $4,225 back salary. Because of the failure of the club Gilpin decided to give up operation of the team and the Eastern League took charge until the end of the season.

Rudolph contended that inasmuch as the Eastern League took over the club it was liable for his back salary. Commissioner Landis, however, ruled that the league lost money in operating the club for the rest of the 1928 season and that Gilpin instead of the league, must pay Rudolph's back salary.

Says Nick Altrock

(Baseball's Comedian)

WASHINGTON, April 22.—We have met the Red Sox and they ain't so bad. They've got one of the best pitching staffs in the league, but when you've said that, you let your voice drop. Surrounding those hurlers with the rest of the Red Sox is like using a notion counter to show off the crown jewels.

Nick Altrock

I don't see any difference in this new baseball. They have made the stitches closer, but that was only to give the needlewomen more work. When Babe Ruth sinks his club into the 1931 apple it still goes for a ride that is interstate commerce.

Harper has kept in close touch with the school's athletic system since resigning as director in 1918 and said he found it little changed in 13 years under the guidance of Rockne.

MEDAL WINNER PLAYS ENGLISH GIRL TODAY

HOT SPRINGS, Va., April 22.—(AP.)—Miss Helen Hicks, of Hewlett, L. I., and three other favorites have advanced to the semi-finals of the Old Dominion women's golf championship.

Miss Hicks, Mrs. Opal S. Hill, Kansas City; Miss Betty Dix Perkin, England, and Mrs. J. Marvin Haynes, Washington, D. C., all won by wide margins in the opening round of match play yesterday. Today Miss Hicks will meet Miss Perkins in semi-final play and Mrs. Hill will be opposed to Mrs. Haynes the Middle States champion.

The Long Island star was invincible against Mrs. Paul Adler, of New York, and won, 6 and 5. Leaving that game that gave her the low medal for the qualifying round, she started with a birdie three on the first and parred the next four holes.

The visiting English player, Miss Perkin, played her finest round since she came to the United States in taking the quarter final match from Miss Dorothy Vare, of Philadelphia, 7 and 5. She was out in 39, and came in in 41 for a total of 80.

Mrs. Hill played a steady round to overwhelm Mrs. H. C. Kersten, of Richmond, Va., 8 and 7. Mrs. Haynes defeated Abigail Vare, sister of Dorothy, 6 and 4.

STOCKS TUMBLE IN SPITE OF RALLIES

Market, After Early Period Of Selling, Turns Up, But Gives Way in Afternoon

NEW YORK, April 22.—(AP.)—A few fitful rallies failed to check the downward drag in today's stock market.

After a flurry of rather active selling in the first hour, the market pointed upward at times during the morning, but gave way before fresh selling during the early afternoon. Failure of important support to appear left bears in control.

Fluctuations narrowed somewhat, but several issues penetrated further into new low ground. Rails were still under pressure although a report that executives had discussed wage reductions with union heads was denied.

Atlantic Coast Line dropped 6 points, and Atchison, Delaware and Hudson and Cotton Belt lost 2 or more. New York Central dipped below the 100 mark. U. S. Steel slipped off more than a point to another minimum since 1927.

Losses of a point or so were numerous.

The mid-week business statistics were in the aggregate scarcely cheerful. Freight car loadings as reported for the week ended April 11 were mildly encouraging, showing a gain of 9,423 cars, somewhat larger than the usual gain for the week, and accounted for largely by a pronounced upturn in the miscellaneous classification. Nevertheless, the total was 173,382 cars under the like week of 1930.

The weekly steel trade reviews were in keeping with advance estimates, indicating that ingot output for the country at large has slipped below 50 per cent of capacity, or back to the average of the last quarter of 1930.

The weekly report of electric power consumption, showing a reduction of 4.6-10 per cent from the like week of last year made the least favorable comparison since the first week of March.

Credit eased, with bankers' acceptance rates shaded 1/8 of 1 per cent, and call money again offered in the outside market as low as 1 per cent.

NEW BANK DEAL UNDER WAY

NEW YORK, April 22.—(AP.)—Official comment was withheld today on actively circulated reports in Wall street that interests affiliated with the Chase National Bank or one of its affiliates had acquired a minority stock interest in the Corn Exchange Bank Trust Company of New York.

When the rumors were circulated several weeks ago officials of the Chase Bank, the largest banking institution in the world, denied that Chase or its security affiliate, Chase Securities Corporation, had any interest in Corn Exchange.

According to the reports the interest Chase is said to have acquired in the Corn Exchange is small. Officials of both Chase and Corn Exchange have denied that any merger of the two institutions has been discussed.

Early in 1929 directors of the Corn Exchange and National City banks agreed upon a plan of consolidation of those institutions. Stockholders of Corn Exchange ratified the plan, but the necessary two-thirds of stockholders in the National City was not obtained and the deal failed.

Major Depression Tests Soundness of Instalment Plan—Upturn Indicated

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service

NEW YORK, April 22.—The major depression has tested the soundness of instalment credits, and it does not seem too early to declare that consumer financing has stood up well under the challenge.

Spokesmen for the well managed finance companies deny that installment credits exaggerate purchasing power in good times and contract it abnormally in depressed periods, as has been loosely charged. They contend that installment credits rise and fall in proportion to changes in the general volume of business.

Mr. Rukeyser.

In so far as installment credits may be looked upon as a barometer of trade, the remark to me about their current status by Edwin C. Vovel, chairman of the executive committee of the Commercial Investment Trust Corporation, leading factor in the installment field, is timely.

INCREASE SEEN

He said:

"It is my belief that the total installment outstandings on our books have passed the low point and there is indication of a seasonal increase from this point on.

He added:

"The loss ratio during the period of depression since the panic of October, 1929, has been somewhat higher than normal.

"The experience of 1930 confirms our faith in the fundamental soundness and safety of installment paper.

RATIO PROBABLY LESS

"It must be remembered that in time of depression such as we have been passing through losses increased with respect to all types of credit and it is my belief that the increase in the ration of losses on installment debts has not been more and has probably been less than the increase in the ratio of losses on open account credits."

"While I do not look to installment selling to bring about a recovery in business I do believe that when recovery is on its way the proper use of the facilities of installment selling will substantially aid the recovery."

Leaders of the finance field adduce convincing data to contradict the earlier fear that installment selling would constitute an important sore spot in the economic situation.

STEEL MARKET UNSETTLED

NEW YORK, April 22.—The Iron Age in its weekly summary of the iron and steel trade tomorrow will say:

Steel production has again eased off to about 49 per cent of capacity for the country as a whole from 51 per cent a week ago and 57 per cent at the March peak. This is the fourth week of the decline, following a slow though uninterrupted rise from the first of the year to the latter part of March. Current operations are back approximately to the average of the last half of 1930, erasing the improvement that occurred during the first quarter.

The recession this month strengthens the impression that the spring rise was largely seasonal in character.

The discussion of wage reductions in the steel industry, though they have been mentioned in no official way, has possibly had a further unsettling effect.

Further declines in scrap quotations have carried the Iron Age composite price for heavy melting steel to $10.75 a gross ton from $10.85 last week, a new low since the first half of 1915.

Notwithstanding the discouraging factors, a sufficient volume of business is in sight to support the view that operations may be sustained at somewhere near the present level during the next several weeks.

An encouraging improvement in retail sales of motor cars this month, together with a semi-official estimate that April output of automobiles will total not less than 330,000 units, compared with nearly 287,000 last month, strengthens the expectation that May's record will at least equal that of April.

Building construction activities are marked by a fair number of large projects, but small work, which normally makes up a considerable proportion of the aggregate tonnage, is coming out sparingly.

Return of Capital Not Menace, Says Critic

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

PARTIAL RETURN OF CAPITAL, which takes place in fixed investment trusts of the distributive type, contains no objectionable features if the investor understands what he is getting, according to the analysis of this question prepared by Sidney S. Korzenik, economist connected with Columbia University, in answering conclusions reached by this writer in discussions of this subject in this column last February.

In speaking of this phase of the fixed investment trust question Mr. Korzenik said:

"Shareholders of the maximum distributive type of fixed trusts, as stated in the preceding article of this series, receive semi-annually all the proceeds derived from the distributions of the underlying companies in the trust portfolio. In addition to regular cash dividends, these include such extras as rights, stock dividends and split-ups. These extras are sold off in the open market and the receipts are distributions of the underlying companies in the trust portfolio, earnings of the portfolio stocks.

"The practical effect of this plan is to maintain the number of shares in the portfolio at exactly the same figures from the beginning to the end of the trust's life and to produce a very attractive return for the trust shareholder.

Capital Liquidation

"IT IS ARGUED by the opponents of this type of trust, however, that this return is a partial distribution of capital in the form of income in so far as it represents the proceeds from the sale of split-ups. They contend that this is a case of trying to eat your cake and have it too. Selling the extra shares created by split-ups, they declare, is like changing a dollar into four quarters and then distributing three of those quarters as income.

"This, of course, would be true if the dollar thus split represented merely its original value. If, however, it had grown in value, then it will be seen that the distribution of its changed denominations may represent a liquidation of its appreciation in value.

"Proponents of the distributive type of fixed trust maintain that invariably this is what such distributions do represent. Split-ups, they point out, usually occur only after stocks have risen substantially in price over their initial cost and have become too expensive for average market demand.

Possibility Remote

"OBVIOUSLY, IF AN INVESTOR bought the shares of a maximum distribution trust today and tomorrow all of the underlying stocks split two for one, without a corresponding increase in the market price of the stocks, the distribution he would receive from these split-ups would be a return of a large part of his principal. The possibility of such a contingency is, of course, untenable.

"Even so, however, the advocates of the distributive trusts contend that allowing for normal growth and expansion of these companies, the appreciation in these stocks over a period of time would maintain the integrity of the original principal invested.

"This is demonstrated by a study recently made by one of the larger distributive trusts which shows that during each consecutive eight-year period since 1913 (had the trust been in existence during that time) the owner of 100 of its shares, assumed to have been purchased for the first year of each period, would have had his original investment entirely returned (except in the 1913-1920 period, in which all of the original investment but $200 would have been returned) and the holder would still have been the owner of his 100 shares.

Importance Overstressed

"THUS IT WILL BE SEEN that it is easy to overstress the importance of the partial return of principal by the distributive trusts, and when the investor thoroughly understands the source of the distributions which he receives, there can be no valid objection to the practice of maximum distributions, particularly when reinvestment 'rights' are given.

"That investors are not in the dark as to the significance of these semi-annual income and capital distributions and that they are not in most cases ignorantly regarding them as completely income, is rather conclusively indicated by the volume of reinvestment which the leading distributive trusts enjoy.

"In the last analysis, it is the economists, therefore, who are principally interested in the discussion of the abstract theories having to do with this practice. The investor is concerned primarily with practical results. He wants returns adequate to meet his needs from funds conservatively invested. Whether he so expresses it or not, he echoes the doctrine that wealth is not his who has it, but his who enjoys it."

Further discussion of Mr. Korzenik's views on this subject will appear in this column tomorrow.

HUMPHREY SEES BUSINESS GAIN

Speaking of the outlook for business conditions, President A. L. Humphrey, Westinghouse Air Brake Company, made the following statement during the annual meeting of the stockholders:

"It is very gratifying to us to be able to report that since the beginning of the year our activities have shown a tendency towards improvement, and at the present time our company is more than holding its own. During the first three months of the current year, our business was larger than it was in the last quarter of 1930. The indications are encouraging and we have every hope that the business depression will before long have become a thing of the past.

"From the prospective business of our company, as well as the Union Switch and Signal Company, the future shows many bright lights, indicating that the outlook not only for our business, but for economic conditions in general, is most promising and the situation is slowly but surely moving forward towards a period of normal industrial as well as commercial activity."

World Production Of Lead Increases

World output of refined lead amounted to 145,489 short tons in March, against 135,320 tons in February and 163,177 tons in March, 1930, according to the American Bureau of Metal Statistics.

NORMAN PLANS WORLD BANK

LONDON, April 22.—(INS.)—American banking interests, with one or two exceptions, agreed to the general outline of a plan for an international bank to finance trade in new world markets, proposed by Montagu Norman, of the Bank of England, in his recent United States visit the London Daily Mail stated today.

Although Norman remained non-committal, the Mail said that he was likely to announce formation of the bank at the forthcoming meetings of the World Bank for International Settlements at Basle, Switzerland.

The plan calls for a capitalization of $500,000,000 with the Balkan States, Germany, Czechoslovakia and Russia participating. The function of the new international bank would be to finance long-term credits to the governments of Eastern Europe and South America.

FOCH ASSIGNS U. S. TROOPS IN DRIVE

Two Divisions With Mangin Expected to Hammer Foe; 42nd Called to Action

The preparation of an offensive against this place situated only a short distance from our lines had been undertaken in accordance with my notes of June 14 and June 16, and Gen. Mangin's plans were all ready by June 20.

Forces Increased

But, since that period I had been led to anticipate that the attack moving from west to east could bring much greater results than a simple disturbance of the enemy's communications, provided its base of departure was widened and the assault conducted with larger forces.

Accordingly, Gen. Mangin had gradually extended his plan so as to embrace the 15 miles which separated his positions on the Aisne from those on the Ourcq, where he joined up with the left of our 6th Army.

His forces had been correspondingly increased until, for the initial operation, he disposed of 18 divisions (among which were the American 1st and 2d Divisions, forming the American 3rd Corps), three cavalry divisions, 240 batteries of 75's, 231 heavy batteries, 41 air squadrons and 375 tanks.

Gen. Degoutte, commanding the 6th Army, had reported that he might be able to operate in a similar sense, prolong the 10th Army to the right and extend the contemplated action beyond the Ourcq.

He had drawn up a plan "for the resumption of the offensive" by the 6th Army, which would continue along the front Ourcq-Clignon, the attack to be made on its left by the 10th Army.

He requested that a regiment of tanks and one or two infantry divisions be placed at his disposal. With these additional troops bringing his attacking force up to eight divisions, he could extend the front of the offensive by 16 miles.

On July 9 I had also contemplated a simultaneous attack by the 5th Army on a front from Rheims to the Marne, moving in a westerly direction, but since that time the situation of the 5th Army had become profoundly modified and its action could now be only secondary.

Americans Win Glory

Meanwhile the 10th and 6th Armies had improved their base of departure by a number of successive operations. Thus, west of Soissons, the 10th Army established itself on the plateau from Cutry to Dommiers; further south it had captured the villages of Longpont and Corcy, adjoining the forest of Villers-Cotterets, and pushed its advanced posts east of the Savieres brook.

On its side, the 6th Army had recaptured several important positions west of Chateau-Thierry, such as the villages of Vaux, the Bois des Roches, and the Bois Belleau, where the American 2d Division had brilliantly conducted itself.

These local operations, prepared with the greatest care, had cost us losses very small in comparison with the moral and tactical results obtained. In any case they had disclosed a certain decrease in the adversary's resistance in this region, indicated also by the large number of prisoners captured.

In order to meet the crisis in man power which now prevailed, the German High Command had evidently separated the divisions into two categories, those entrusted merely with the task of holding on to the ground facing west, and those charged with conquering new territory to the south. Their value appeared to be frankly unequal.

Such was the outlook and the point reached by our preparations when the German attack fell with all its tremendous force, rapidly attenuated, it is true.

Offensive Launched

Whatever the uneasiness it had produced, I could not admit that this attack ought to prevent the completion of the preparations going on in our 10th and 6th Armies for an enterprise between the Aisne and the Marne which seemed full of promise. The momentarily weakened condition in front of the 5th Army and south of the Marne could in the meantime be met by fortuitous measures.

At daybreak on July 18th, the 10th and 6th Armies launched their offensive. At 4:35 a. m. on the front running from the valley of the Marne to the plateau of Nouvion, the heavily reinforced artillery of the two armies suddenly opened while the infantry, without further preparation, emerged from their trenches and, preceded by tanks and accompanied by numerous aeroplanes, advanced against the enemy.

North of the Ourcq, the 10th Army penetrated deeply into the enemy's main position; by 10 a. m. it had captured Chaudun, Vierzy and Villers-Helon.

On the south, the 6th Army first seized the line of German advanced posts, and then, conforming to its program, carried out an artillery preparation of one-and-a-half hours on the enemy's line of resistance. It then successfully resumed its advance and, by mid-day, it had seized that line from Marizy-St. Mard to Torcy.

Urges Sustained Action

"1. The region north of the Marne at Chateau-Thierry appears the most favorable for a fruitful offensive. It is therefore advisable to first of all intensify the action undertaken today by our 6th and 10th Armies and then make preparations for its development northwards.

"2. With this two-fold object in view, it is necessary to concentrate without delay all available fresh units that are now south of the line Chateau-Thierry-Rheims-Massiges, which line will doubtless become for us merely the scene of demonstrations.

"3. The units to be considered, among others, are: The British 22d Corps, which should go to join the British 15th and 34th Divisions; the American 42d Division, French or American units brought from the east.

"4. This new distribution of forces must not in any way abate the offensive actively demanded of the 9th, 5th and 4th Armies. It is by the reorganization of the forces already engaged and not by the introduction of new forces that the action must be sustained."

At the same time, I notified Field Marshal Haig that "in order to be in a position to exploit the results already achieved," the British 15th and 34th divisions had been moved to the region of Villers-Cotterets where, while remaining in reserve, they would be able to make preparations to enter the battle.

The results obtained on July 18th were, indeed, considerable. Apart from the ground gained which by the end of the day had carried their advance guards up to the line Pernant—Neuilly-St. Front-Torcy, the 6th and 10th armies had captured 10,000 prisoners and several hundred guns.

The adversary had been surprised and in general he had not put up a very stout resistance. The use of the railway lines centering in Soissons was henceforth denied him.

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

Unsung New Yorkers

NEW YORK, April 22.

MR. WILLIAMS, business manager and personal representative for Miss Vera Prettyface, the noted motion picture star, sat in his office and yawned prettily. His feet on his desk and his hands clasped around the back of his head, he was the perfect picture of the successful business man as he is never shown in the success magazines.

This gentleman was very proud of himself and was extremely contented with his lot. He had good reason to be. Miss Prettyface's husband was one of the wealthiest men in the United States and he trusted Mr. Williams implicitly.

"Mr. Williams," she said, "there's a gentleman on the phone who says he must talk with you on a matter of the utmost importance. He says he is the secretary to Monte, the great French portrait painter."

Mr. Williams reached for his phone as though he were lifting 600 pounds in one hand.

"Hello," he murmured. "This is Williams speaking."

"Mr. Williams," it said, "it is so good of you to speak to me. I speak to you as secretary to Monte, the French artist. He has come to America incognito and wishes no one to know he is here. May I proceed on that basis?"

"Sure," he replied. "That's okay with me. What's on your mind?"

"Mr. Williams," it finally said, "the French government has commissioned Monsieur Monte to paint the pictures of the five most beautiful women in the world. It is to be kept an absolute secret until the five portraits are finished.

"After an exhaustive search, Monte has reached the conclusion that Miss Prettyface is to be the first of the five.

"As you undoubtedly know, Monsieur Monte will not undertake a portrait for less than $25,000. In the case of Miss Prettyface, however, he will consider it an honor to paint her for nothing. As her representative, Mr. Williams, you will undoubtedly understand the distinction he is bestowing upon her."

Now it so happened that Mr. Williams had never heard of Monsieur Monte. Furthermore, as far as art was concerned, he was pretty certain that Rembrandt was a motor car and Rubens was a sandwich. But the entire thing sounded very tony to him.

"I think that Miss Prettyface will go for the idea," he chirped. "I will speak to her husband and then to her. Call me back here tomorrow about 11 o'clock and I will have my answer."

"Ah," said the other voice, "thank you, Mr. Williams. You Americans are so considerate."

As soon as he had hung up on the kindly caller, the business manager called Miss Prettyface's husband.

"Don't you know?" cried the business manager as though he was the most surprised man in the world. "Why, he's he's Monsieur Monte. Everybody's heard of him."

The husband said it was all right with him if it was all right with Miss Prettyface. He hung up. Whereupon Mr. Williams called a newspaper and asked if there was such a person as Monte, the artist. He was told there most certainly was. Williams leaned back in his chair and mopped his brow.

"Thank goodness," he murmured, "I'd have been in a fine fix if there wasn't such a guy."

The following noon a conference had been arranged. At it were Miss Prettyface, Mr. Williams and Monsieur Duval, secretary to Monsieur Monte.

Monsieur Duval was the pivot. He did most of the talking.

"It is all arranged, then," he smiled, "Miss Prettyface will come tomorrow morning to Monsieur Monte's hotel for her first sitting. And Mr. Williams will escort her."

"Dear me," he cried, "I have forgotten the most important thing. Miss Prettyface is posing in an evening gown. And I have forgotten to tell you that I have arranged with Tiffany's for a loan of some beautiful diamonds and emeralds. Miss Prettyface can wear these while she is posing. I am sure—"

Miss Prettyface shook her head.

"I don't get the Tiffany idea," she interrupted. "Why can't I wear my own jewels? They've been written about all over the world. I don't see any reason why I shouldn't pose in my own jewelry."

"Just as you prefer," he murmured. "I am sure that Monsieur Monte will not object to the change. He will greet you in person tomorrow at his hotel.

"Meanwhile, let me kindly caution you once again. No word of this sitting is to be given to anyone until the portrait is actually completed. It would be extremely embarrassing to the French government. You understand, eh?"

Mr. Williams nodded.

"Oh, sure," he said. "We get you."

"Yeah," said Miss Prettyface.

The following morning found the picture star and her manager at Monsieur Monte's suite in the very expensive hotel. Monsieur Duval bowed them in and introduced them to the great Monte. Monte bowed and kissed the hand of madame.

"You will pardon Monsieur Monte," smiled Duval. "He speaks so little English. You have your jewels with you, Miss Prettyface?"

"In that case, cutie," he observed pleasantly, "you can sit yourself down and take a load off those pretty feet. We're not going to hurt you as long as you're a good little girl."

"See here," began Mr. Williams, "this kind of an outrage will—"

He got no further. Monsieur Duval tapped him gently over the right temple. And in five minutes, both Mr. Williams and Miss Prettyface were gagged and bound to the queen's taste.

It was I think one of the prettiest robberies ever pulled off in the City of New York. I have changed all the names, of course. The name the artist used was that of an actual Frenchman. He had never visited America, but had an international reputation.

* * *

It is one of the few "actress-robbed-of-jewels" stories that never made the papers. The few papers that heard about it refused to print it on the ground that it must have been a publicity stunt . . .

Real Estate

A six-room brick home in Crescent drive, Mt. Lebanon, has been sold for A. N. Young to L. I. Drake for $13,250, by Stevenson-Williams, Mt. Lebanon realtors. The lot measures 55x155 feet.

HOME PURCHASED

The same realtors have sold for Albert H. Young to Harry Bosmarkel a six-room home in Hazel drive. The lot is 60x120 feet.

A building lot 50x180 feet in the Beverly School plan of Mt. Lebanon has been purchased by Charles A. Wicker from the Beverly School Land Company. Stevenson-Williams also closed this deal.

Building permits issued in 568 larger cities throughout the country during March amounted to $188,874,678, a decline of 18 per cent from the same month of last year, according to reports made to S. W. Straus & Co. The March volume showed a gain of 38 per cent over February, in contrast to a normal seasonal expectancy of an increase of 39.7 per cent. The 25 cities in which the largest volume of permits was recorded showed according to the reports a 13 per cent increase over March of last year and a 55 per cent gain over February.

PUBLIC WORK HEAVY

That highway and public work construction is in for a banner year is foreseen by the Associated General Contractors of America.

An analysis of construction trends just completed by the association shows that state and municipal bonds issued for March were larger than for any other month on record, with the exception of the peak month of December 1929.

Charts of the association show that, due to the continued low level of private building operations the volume of all construction work performed during the first quarter of 1931 as determined by shipments of basic construction materials was smaller than at any time since 1922.

TO DISCUSS FINANCE

The possibilities of an entirely new agency for the rapid finance of realty deals and the influence of the public mind on the structures erected in this country are subjects to be discussed at the general sessions of the annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards to be held from May 27 to 30 in Baltimore.

Marcus Nadler, assistant director of the International Institute of Finance, New York University, will speak before the realtors on "Central Mortgage Banks in Foreign Countries and Their Lessons for Us."

Attorney Accuses Russian Of Killing Gangster

Scorpio glared at the dead body of the gang leader. Then he whirled upon the unperturbed Newton, who sat, watching the drama with a cynical stare. He covered the lawyer with his gun, then stood irresolute.

"Shoot—if you have the nerve—I'll never turn my back on you," was Newton's calm comment.

He lifted his glass to his lips. There was a look so compelling in the eyes of the gang's master mind that Scorpio hesitated.

"You knew I was being put on the spot," accused the angry gangster. Newton shrugged his shoulders.

"If I did, I wasn't in a position to do anything about it, was I? As a matter of fact, I'd been hoping for some time that you would bump Johnny off."

Police Arrive

"Because," said the lawyer bitingly, "it takes a guy as dirty as you to run this gang."

"I've been watching—the men all fear you and you've been developing into a real leader. You're the right man. If you'd killed him bravely, I wouldn't say so—but you shot him in the back. You're cunning as you are vicious—a real gangster. Slaughterhouse.

"Nevertheless—I admire you. That's why I am going to save you now."

"I don't get you," stammered Scorpio.

"I know every loophole in the law—I always get the boys sprung and you know it. From now on I'm going to use you to keep the gang in order—and I'm going to protect you from the law."

"You're the new boss—except to me."

Then both started to attention.

"Nobody ever swung that I defended," said the lawyer calmly. "Don't get excited. They'll come in here and they'll find the body. But if you follow me, I'll save you. They'll pinch you, but I'll soon have you out."

"Lucky Johnny didn't load up again after doing that gunning at Finkel's," he grinned.

He seized Scorpio's weapon, and dropped it behind the ice-box. He was not a second too soon. The police pounded on the door of the office.

"Franks was killed—that's all," Newton informed them calmly.

Blames Russian

Newton nodded.

The sergeant, with two plain-clothesmen, stepped forward and examined the body.

"He's dead, all right—shot in the back three times." The sergeant eyed Newton again.

"You know who did this?" he demanded.

Edging into the room were Carl and Hank, the two reporters. Shoving and elbowing through the crowd, they approached the body.

"Oh—we'd been nosing around on this Finkel murder, and somehow thought maybe it might develop an angle out here in Centro," stated Hank. "You see, Carl had been following the gang that did the shooting in the city, and got a tip—"

The sergeant snorted.

"Fine pair of Sherlock Holmeses," he commented, then turned once more to Newton and Scorpio.

"Come on—who did it?" he demanded.

Pausing for a moment, as though to inject the air of the dramatic into his disclosure, he threw open the closet door.

"Come out of there, Vronski!" he demanded sharply.

DAILY TRUE STORY

Stupid Stephan

Missing Diamonds Found Under Cement Step

When Johan Barrosen, who had for years been a successful lapidary and small diamond merchant in New York, went over to Antwerp on business, he was reminded that he had a nephew.

Stephan Kalon was the son of another sister, long since dead. Stephan had been apprenticed to a lapidary at the age of twelve. Johan recalled it when reminded.

During the next day Johan went to the place where his nephew was employed. He did not remember him very well; only as a small boy had he seen him on one of his early visits.

Johan watched his nephew at work and secretly admired his cleverness. Stephan was nearly twenty-five. He took the young nephew out for dinner that night and at the home of his other sister, whence he brought the young man, he showed him the diamonds he had bought to take back to New York with him.

Stephan looked them over. He told his uncle exactly what he should have paid for them, which showed the old uncle that the young man knew diamonds.

There were two exceptions.

Visions of Riches

Old Johan adjusted his glass and studied them. Finally he saw that the boy was right.

"Well, Stephan, I have in mind to do great things for you," the old man said. "I shall bring you to New York to work for me."

"I don't know, Uncle Johan. I do well here. In another year or so I shall marry Berta Kalob. New York is far."

"Tut-tut—but the wages are different," and the old man told Stephan what wages he would pay.

This was double—more than double—of the best wages he could get in Antwerp. He had visions of riches in a few patient years.

Old Johan Barrosen managed to disguise his keen delight upon learning from Stephan that he would come to New York to work for him. He did not want to seem too eager.

Old Johan considered himself to be a very sharp business man, and he regarded Stephan as stupid. In fact, Stephan's aunt, who understood all that was going on, told her brother that Stephen was stupid.

"A good workman, yes. But stupid. No business head. He will be most happy working for you, and never fear he will not suspect that lapidaries there are paid three times what you offer," Johan's sister said.

It was her own suggestion that Johan make his nephew sign a contract to work for this stated salary.

Stephan was delighted to sign the contract. He had not dared ask his uncle to give him a contract as assurance that he would not lose his position.

Berta was pleased when she learned of this.

Penal Offense

But Stephan, after six months, discovered that while his wages seemed to be very great, from an Antwerp standard, they were mighty poor for New York.

He wrote frankly to Berta that he could live far better in Antwerp on 10 a week than he could in New York on 40 a week.

"Some men are fools to pay so much. I am not a fool, Stephan, at least I am not a foolish or stupid member of the family."

"But others pay more. I can get more at many other places. I must save money to bring Berta over, and I cannot do it here. And so, uncle, I shall have to go to some other place to work."

"Leave me? Work for someone else? Impossible?"

"But I must."

"You cannot."

"I can, and quite easy. I have friends now who can get me positions at three times what you pay me. I must go."

"Go? Where will you go—to prison?"

"Prison?"

"What about the contract—you cannot break your contract. I shall have you locked up if you do!"

"You wouldn't do that, Uncle Johan."

Builds Cottage

"In a minute, I am a business man. I offer you a salary and you accept. I give you a contract and you sign. You remain here with me or I shall have you arrested and locked up."

Stephan stared at his uncle and nodded. His face reddened as he fought off the impulse to strike the old man.

"You would do better to let me go," was all he said.

"You would do better than not to be so stupid next time," his uncle cried, laughing because of his cleverness.

There was a place over in the Jersey meadow where some of Stephan's countrymen lived. The land he could secure for little. He was desperate. He bought the land with what he saved and he began to commute over there, living in a little shack while he slaved away and worked overtime to build himself a little cottage.

Stephan was handy that way.

For another year Stephan toiled almost night and day. He drained and cleared his lot, fenced it, put in cement walks and steps to his cottage and lived cheaper than before. He was saving a little faster.

But still the cost of bringing Berta over was so great that it would be two more years at least.

Again and again Stephan appealed to his uncle to pay him more. He reminded the old man that he couldn't take his money with him. It was no use. Johan would pay what he agreed and he held the contract. Stephan did not know enough, at first, to get a lawyer who would have shown him how to break the contract in no time at all.

"Absurd. I could not sell such large stones without it being known — you may search," Stephan said, stiffly.

The result was that these men had badly damaged Stephan's garden and fences and some walls inside. Stephan got a lawyer. Old Johan got frightened and had to pay for the repairs. Then he discharged Stephan.

"You cannot discharge me; there is the contract," Stephan told him.

"Of course I can discharge you, but you cannot leave," Johan blustered.

Stephan's lawyer read the contract. In secret he told Stephan that it was worthless but he told the old man that he couldn't do a thing.

Agreement Reached

Then Stephan went to his uncle alone. He had been coached by his clever lawyer.

"I am stupid Stephan, all right, Uncle Johan. We are alone. What I say now I can deny and what can you do? Well, the diamonds are worth almost a hundred thousand of American dollars. Too bad you lost them. Now if I were paid for all the back salary you cheated me out of, and my lawyer had you sign a contract to pay me a hundred and fifty a week from now on, do, you know I might find those diamonds?"

"Me? I'm too stupid. You are the smart one."

The old man raved, but finally he did just as Stephan directed. Then Stephan with his lawyer and the old uncle, went to his cottage and broke up the cement step.

Berta arrived on the next boat and old Johan tells everyone that he has the smartest nephew any uncle ever had.

Blue Law Wins on Vote

Only Eighteen Allegheny Legislators Vote in Conformity to Local Sentiment.

The first actual test of strength of blue law opponents in the House of Representatives in Harrisburg, yesterday, resulted in their defeat, 101 to 99. With the House sitting as a committee of the whole, an attempt was made to amend the Schwartz bill, extending by one hour the time for delivering milk on Sunday morning. The proposed amendment, to permit Sunday baseball, was voted down.

Eighteen Allegheny County votes were recorded for it. Seven were opposed and two were absent. Following is the record of the Allegheny County delegation:

For—Joseph R. Lynch, Walter E. Tucker, George C. Metzler, Patrick J. Maloney, Charles T. Dwyer, Max J. Spann, George H. Soffel, Clayton A. Dietrich, William T. Bell, James Wetiach, James P. Rooney, William F. Stadtlander, Frank Hoffman, Frank M. Reed, Joseph G. Steedle, Fred C. Gangloff, Michael A. Musmanno and Matthew A. Dunn—18.

The seven who voted against the amendment and the two who absented themselves, if their absence was for purpose of evasion, are clearly in opposition to the sentiment of their constituents on this matter.

That this is so is proven in the result of the postcard vote taken by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph last year. In that poll voters expressed themselves on one of three choices—enforcement (continuance of blue law), modification or repeal. The classified vote for Pittsburgh, third class cities, boroughs and townships shows that enforcement won in NO DIVISIONAL GROUP.

Pittsburgh voted 30,816 for repeal; 5,822 for enforcement; 2,967 for modification. The third class cities voted 2,494 for repeal; 488 for enforcement; 256 for modification. The boroughs voted 11,214 for repeal; 2,788 for enforcement; 1,359 for modification. Townships voted 4,451 for repeal; 1,066 for enforcement; 507 for modification.

That vote was not conducted to provide propaganda for changing the blue law but to get the actual sentiment of the voters of the county on it. We feel certain that is the real sentiment.

Representatives who were not guided by that sentiment may have made a big mistake.

Efforts to provide Sunday baseball, however, appear not to be entirely dead. Another bill, to permit this recreation, has been reported by committee and appears on the House calendar. Unless there is change in the line-up shown for the amendment to the Schwartz bill, there will be no hope for it.

Perhaps if YOU wrote your representative what you think it might help him to decide what he wants to do.

Capital Police Wise

"Hunger Marchers" Welcomed and Are Allowed to Express Complaints.

Some of the "hunger marchers" from Pittsburgh, Reading and other places must have felt aggrieved when they arrived in Harrisburg and received a hearing. No massing of police around the State Capitol to prevent invasion. No buffeting by the police, no head-smashing. Nothing of the sensational to warm the heart of the professional agitator. In short, the visitors were made welcome and everything was so peaceable that publicity seekers must have been disappointed.

This was wise on the part of state police and Harrisburg municipal peace officers. Everybody who has a just complaint should have the right to present it at the throne. That was a privilege even autocratic kings did not deny.

The legislators heard one speaker say "it is your fault that we are unemployed." Of course, the speaker is wrong, but it will not hurt if the legislators are made to think a bit and to realize their responsibilities.

One of the demands made was for unemployment insurance. Dole or not, that will be a poser for the legislators, if they give it serious attention.

Short Line Danger Spot

Condition of Abandoned Road Causes Wonder About Safety Inspections.

A series of photographs that appeared in yesterday's Sun-Telegraph show that the abandonment of the Butler Short Line was well justified on the grounds of safety alone. At the same time the pictures cause amazement that the line was permitted to operate so long. Spikes were shown to be so loose they could be picked out with the fingers alone. Broken rails and ties that could be pulled to pieces were depicted. Corroded bridge members and cracked timbers also were illustrated.

One wonders who is responsible for the road having become in such an unsafe condition. Had inspection been abandoned or was it just a matter of form? Patrons of the road are fortunate, under the circumstances, that there has been no serious accident.

Toonerville Trolleys that jump the tracks are jokes only in the comic strips. But safety inspections seem to be a joke anywhere.

English

The World Language.

Not French, German, Spanish, Italian, Chinese, nor Esperanto, but English, will be the world language of the future, philologists predict. There are many reasons for the belief. You may be interested in a few.

First, English is the simplest language except, possibly, Danish. Second, it contains more foreign words than any other. And third, it is spoken by more persons—220,000,000 to be exact.

Films, advertising, travel and business have spread English so widely that you can now go almost anywhere on the globe with no other language and be inconvenienced but little. English is today what Latin was in the middle ages. It is only a question of time when every foreigner will have to learn it in addition to his own.

He may not want to, but unless all signs fail he will have no choice.

Open Season

By Nelson Harding

Do we read aright the notice,
The official proclamation
That declares an open season
For the hunting of our people?

Our own Government's protection
Is withdrawn from the defenseless
Left like wild game to the mercy
Of the hounds and of the hunters?

'Cringing and Crawling'

An Administration That Refuses to Protect Americans Abroad Gets the Contempt It Deserves.

Copyright, 1931, New York Evening Journal, Inc. Registered U. S. Patent Office.

Time was when Americans abroad could not be lined up against a stone wall and shot without a protest from this government.

The protest, also, was usually backed up by the guns of American warships and the rifles of American bluejackets and marines.

Assassinating American citizens thus became a sport that few foreign nations indulged in TWICE.

That lesson, first taught under the walls of Tripoli by Stephen Decatur more than a hundred years ago, has been with few exceptions our national policy since.

Roosevelt, like Decatur, had the strange idea that American citizenship should be respected everywhere and, like Decatur, he took steps to make it respected.

Soon after nine Americans in Nicaragua had been brutally murdered by Sandino's outlaws, our State Department advised all remaining Americans in that country that they would not be protected unless they fled to the coast.

Apparently the State Department thought the United States too cowardly or too weak to look after its own people if they lived beyond the range of the guns of its Navy. Instead of "Perdicaris alive or Raisuli dead," it sent a pusillanimous message that a tenth-rate country would be ashamed to put its signature to.

This has not raised American prestige abroad nor American self-respect at home. But as a confession of official blundering, it is masterly.

Had President Coolidge's wise policy been carried out, as he laid it down for his successor, there is little chance that these killings would have occurred.

The Coolidge program was to train and develop a native Nicaraguan police force which could preserve order and permit the marines to be gradually withdrawn.

The present administration failed to carry out that program. For two years it did nothing and then suddenly announced that it would withdraw the marines, though it well knew that the Nicaraguan police force was too small to keep order and could not be developed sufficiently to do so for months or years.

The announcement of hasty withdrawal was an invitation to Sandino to come in and shoot up a place that had been virtually stripped of defenders—an invitation that Sandino accepted.

The further announcement that the United States will not protect citizens living inland is a fresh invitation to outlaws of the Sandino type to butcher more Americans.

There is little that the government can be proud of in its two-years mismanagement of Nicaraguan affairs.

And now the cringing official declaration that the United States cannot or will not protect its own people in that country caps the climax.

An administration that seeks refuge from its past blunders by these timorous, un-American tactics deserves the contempt it gets, and gets the contempt it deserves.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND.

Mrs. Solomon Says—

Verily, my daughter, how softer than a down pillow, how lighter and more irresponsible than a summer holiday is the life of a MAN, in this Day of Tolerant Women and Amiable Damsels!

* * *

Lo, once a damsel was wroth if a man arrived not upon the hour of his appointment. She kept him waiting, without mercy.

* * *

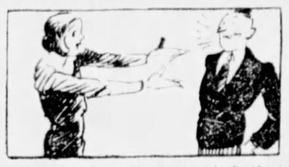
But, now, she chideth not the tardy wooer, but runneth joyfully to greet him at the first note of his motor-horn. And the divans of the hotel lobbies are adorned with neglected maidens who wait patiently in all their humility for any man who chooseth to keep them waiting.

* * *

Once a damsel was scorned if a man called not to escort her to the party, and came not bringing orchids and burnt offerings and a taxicab.

* * *

But now she meeteth him cheerfully at the corner drug store. And, peradventure, if he be coy, she getteth out her own car and calleth at his house, that she may drive him to the dance with her own fair hands. She is SO chivalrous!



Once a damsel demanded that a man give her ALL his love, and vow eternal devotion, in exchange for her kisses and favors.

* * *

But now she is delighted with a part-time affection and a co-operative interest in his heart. Yea, a little parking privilege in his consciousness is all that she asketh.

* * *

* * *

But now she rendereth him first aid. Yea she giveth him the words and music and he hath only to repeat them after her, and she is content.

* * *

And, peradventure, it shall come to pass in time that a woman will have to promise a man a jeweled wrist-watch and to vow not to tell his mother, before he will PERMIT her to kiss him!

* * *

Then ask me not why men are so self-satisfied and complacent. For they are shyer than quail in the bush and harder to "pin down" than butterflies upon the wing.

SCIENTIFIC CURIOSITY

By Archibald Henderson

In almost all, if not all, human beings, there is implanted a trait or attribute, which is of the greatest potential value to the race. It is the heaven-born quality of curiosity. The child wants to open the doll and see what its insides are made of. The boy wants to take the clock to pieces and see what it is that makes the wheels go round. Mothers are constantly badgered and worried by children who want to put their noses into everything and find what it is all about. They should console themselves with the reflection that without this attribute the race would, in all probability, die out in a reasonable length of time. Curiosity is the steam in the engine of progress. It is the motive behind the scientist, the inventor, the explorer, the discoverer.

Someone has said that the best substitute ever found for courage is curiosity. It is often only another name for courage. The chemist never knows when an explosion may take place in his laboratory, but he works on just the same. The investigation in guncotton, trinitrotoual, dynamite and other forms of high explosives, is perpetually risking his life. Courage and curiosity go hand in hand, for all practical purposes they are one. The investigator is courageous for just one reason: he wants to know.

The worker in pure science is delighted with his results if they are accurate and contribute to the world's store knowledge. Michelson has already determined the velocity of light with exceeding accuracy. Yet he is making new experiments now, because he has discovered means of arriving at an even more accurate determination. What difference can a few more or a few less miles per second in 186,000 make to anybody? Who can say?

The day might come, conceivably, when the fate of the human race of the universe itself, would depend upon the small quantity, which represents exact knowledge. In reply to a sincere query as to why he spent so much time in determining the velocity of light, Michelson mischievously replied: "Because it is good fun." This is only camouflage. The real reason is that, each time, he has found some element in the technic of measurement which afforded a possibility of error. Michelson would never desist from an important experiment so long as he knew that there was a single source of error which he could eliminate. Curiosity drives him on to the discovery of exact truth.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Lois Brown, aged 17, has quit business college. She says she'd rather die than be a stenographer and she's plaguing her folks to let her take up aesthetic dancing. It's pretty hard on Mr. and Mrs. Brown. They've gone into debt to send Lois through school and they were counting on her helping out for the next few years. But, of course, they'll give in, for Lois has convinced them that she's a second Pavlowa and they dare not refuse to give her her chance.

Then there's Martha's boy, Marvin. He's 21 and has a trivial clerking job that brings him in about $100 per month. His uncle has offered him a chance to work the ranch on shares and Martha's wild to have him take it. But Marvin refuses to leave the city. He's joined a Little Theater movement and is preparing to make Barrymore look like a plugged nickel. The very thought of branding longhorns makes him ill.

And young Mrs. Nell . . . they've only been married 18 months, but she's turned her new baby over to her mother to tend and she's studying to write short stories. It's tough on John. He's just getting started in business and he needs every cent he can save. Eating in restaurants is expensive. But he feels he should make every sacrifice for Millie, because of her "great talent."

There are three cases. I could name dozens more—so could you. Fact is, things have gotten so that every other young person you meet is bent on being a writer or an actor or a dancer. From which you might surmise that this country is about to be flooded with genius. But you'd surmise wrong. Ask any editor or director how these Potential Stars stack up and he'll tell you that the great majority of them haven't even talent, much less genius. Then why are they so hell-bent on climbing on the stage or the front page? The psychologists have a name for it—"EXHIBITIONISM." But way back when you and I were kids our folks called it "SHOWING OFF."

I'm no world's historian, but I'll bet that this is the Showingest Off Age since Adamless was a pup. Living has become so soft and easy and so glittered up with bright lights that we can't be bothered with regular chores any more. We all want to get out and do something unusual—strut our stuff—"express ourselves."

Now there are certain rare individuals who really have something to express. They have it because they worked for it. They loved Truth and Beauty for their own sake and they were willing to endure any amount of study, discipline, monotony and obscurity to find and reveal them.

But the average Yearner does not belong to this class. He is no humble worshiper at the shrine of Beauty and Truth. He worships only himself . . . desires to express only himself. And unfortunately the average Yearner has little to express but buck teeth, fallen arches and gobs 'n' gobs of conceit. But does this deter him from hitching his kiddie-car to a star? No, gentle reader, it does not. For he should worry whether he has Art or not, S'LONG AS HE CAN SHOW OFF. AND, BESIDES, WHAT A WONDERFUL ALIBI "GENIUS" IS FOR AVOIDING HARD WORK!

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS.

Your Name

Your name is like
A little song
Which through my thoughts
Runs all day long,
And while I toil
Or while I play,
Its muted measures
Softly stray.

It's syllables
I find so sweet
That often, gently,
I repeat
Your name, like one
Who, singing, tries
New lilts, new lyrics
To devise.

As sweet as flowers,
As gay as flame,
In patterns fair
I weave your name.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 22.—The "We Boys" are at it again. They are the prototypes of O. Henry's "gentle grafter"—the benignly smiling rascals who pose as having important connections with newspapers and press associations. "We boys want you to help us out" is the theme of their spiels.

For years they bivouacked in the old Waldorf's Peacock Alley, so ubiquitous that a special squad of house detectives was formed to give them the bum's rush through revolving doors. They acquired a flair for social graces and few could resist their credulous cooing.

After several were "sent up the river," they vanished, but lately they popped up again. They are perhaps the smoothest of petty swindlers, usually silver haired, well dressed and always carrying the aroma of recent barbering. Their unctuousness is so thick it is sticky.

They hang out only where they may come in contact with "big shots"—the smart hotel foyer, theater lobbies, cafes and select supper clubs. It is their job to scrape up those seemingly casual acquaintances. They catalogue you and later you will hear from them.

Their first contact is by telephone. They are promoting a Social Address Book, a book of "prominent New Yorkers." Or perhaps a local variant of "Who's Who." They say: "We boys are getting out this volume to help us build a club for members of the press."

The intimation is slyly injected that to be "in right" with "We Boys" will be a help in case of a sudden scandal or any other little twist that might burgeon into headlines. There are also subtle references to police fixing for auto speeding or other minor infractions.

As shop worn as this racket is, there is always a new crop of new suckers. And "We Boys" are able to drag down several hundred dollars a week so long as the going is good. As the graft is small and the sucker hates the spotlight arrests are seldom.

* * *

Restaurants depending almost solely on a theatrical patronage usually wind up in hands of the sheriff. Healy's, Churchill's, Rector's and Shanley's were this sort. No clientele is so fickle. It symbolizes the troupers' heart—the desire to roam. And show off.

Willie Howard confesses he was a soprano at the age of 12. But he explains: "At that age how did I know what I was doing?" Incidentally, ...ward's brother Eugene joined him for a benefit the other night and forced me to revise my idea of the best fitting suit of clothes in town. He was wearing it.

* * *

They were discussing the lucky star that trails Al Smith. In his defeat for the presidency, he escaped perhaps the most difficult situation a president ever had to face. Many other similar instances in his life were recalled. A slightly stewed gentleman, who was listening in finally mumbled: "Isn't bad either to have a big building to sit in in times like these."

* * *

Lyda Roberti, that flaxen haired Polish "discovery" of Lou Holz, continues to be welcomed joyously among the Broadway crowds. Her youthfulness, marvelous mop of bright hair and comic paper dialect encompass a combination seldom attained among the bright lights. Youth is always wonderful. As George Bernard once exclaimed, it seems a shame to waste it on children.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Don't you often make unfavorable comments and comparisons between members of your own and other families?

You say in effect, "Now why can't you appear as Mrs. So-and-So?" "Why is it that our children are not as attractive as the children of Mrs. This or That?"

Are you not as much to blame as any one?

If you do not provide the clothes or permit your family to enjoy the advantages which will improve them how can you expect them to make as good an appearance as those well-favored in these ways?

There may be a detrimental strain in your children which come from your family.

They may not naturally have the bearing and general winsomeness of the family you admire, but it is not their fault.

You ought to be more sympathetic and friendly to your children since you brought them into the world with certain well-defined characteristics.

Your manner may cultivate rebellious spirit in them. A lack of companionship on your part may wean them away and hinder their growth in the way you so desire.

Text For Today All men should honor the Son, even as they honor the Father. He that honoreth not the Son honoreth not the Father which hath sent him.—John, v:23.
